It records our daily lives at Douglas, capturing us in our many moods. Moods of joy, happiness, and excitement . . .

As well as moods of serious contemplation, doubt, and even boredom.

The camera unobtrusively follows our paths through the academic obstacles placed in our way along our educational journey . . .

noting the ever present battles between the students and their text books as well as the more exciting tasks performed in the labs or shops.

Outside the classroom
the ever present camera observes us as we represent David Douglas in the performing arts,

And also as we carry forth the Scot banner on the fields of athletic competition.

It is there
when we have our assemblies,

And the camera's eye even sees many of us as we involve ourselves in many other facets of Douglas' extra curricular life.

Recorded on film throughout the year are our many and varied relationships with our fellow classmates and friends . . .

And also the interaction between us and those who guide us on our Scotsman journey.

These individual captured images by themselves are interesting for the moment but have little long term significance.

But brought together with skill, dedication, and love,
they become the CELTIC,
the lasting and very special story of a year in the life of David Douglas.

SENIORS

Seniors Set New Standards of Excellence

The members of the Class of '86 can look back with great pride and satisfaction on their many and varied accomplishments at Douglas. The uncertainties of the first three years gave way to a strong sense of leadership both in school and in the community during the seniors' final year. Among the many memories will be the successes of the athletic teams; the great pep assemblies; the dances; the efforts of many class members in the struggle to get the budget passed; and of course, the final senior days ending with our graduation ceremony. It was a rewarding journey, and though many of the memories will fade as the years pass, we shall always remember fondly the people we met and the friends we made during our Douglas years.

Tom George Grabs Scholarship Honors

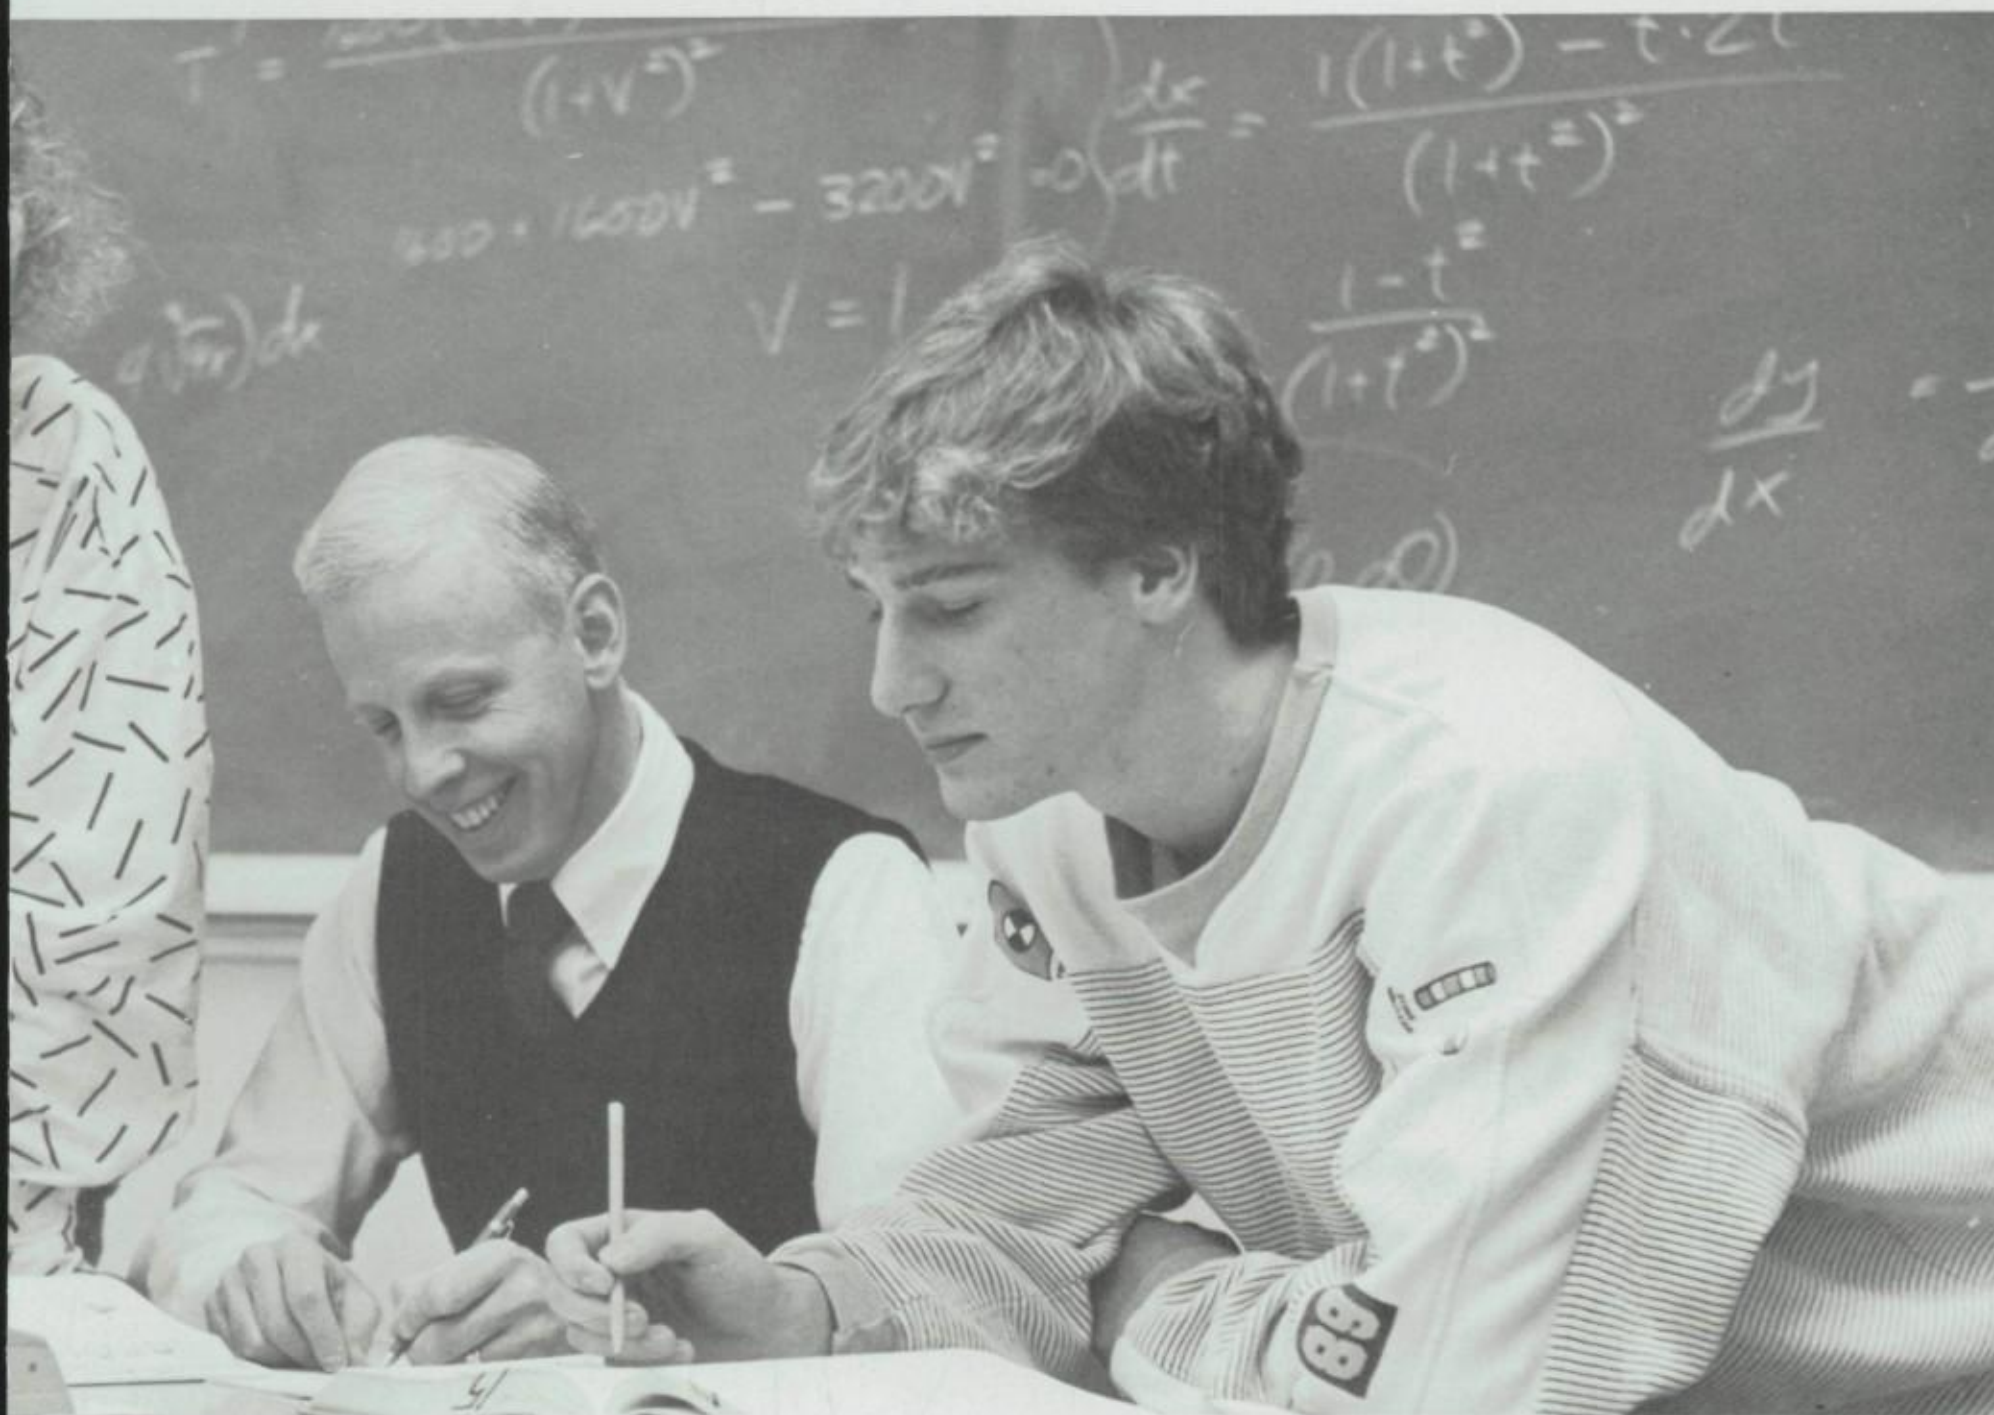

Although high school offers a wide variety of experiences and challenges, the classroom remains the primary challenge to all students. To achieve perfection in academic achievement for four consecutive years is a remarkable accomplishment. This year Tom George achieved this goal and in doing so became the valedictorian of the Class of 1986. Taking a heavy load of college prep courses, George still found spare time to become involved in many extracurricular activities at Douglas, including band, sports, and student government.

In close academic pursuit of George was salutatorian Kelly Busch who posted a 3.829 GPA for her four-year career. Busch plans to enter the University of Oregon next fall, where she will study toward becoming a teacher of high school mathematics.

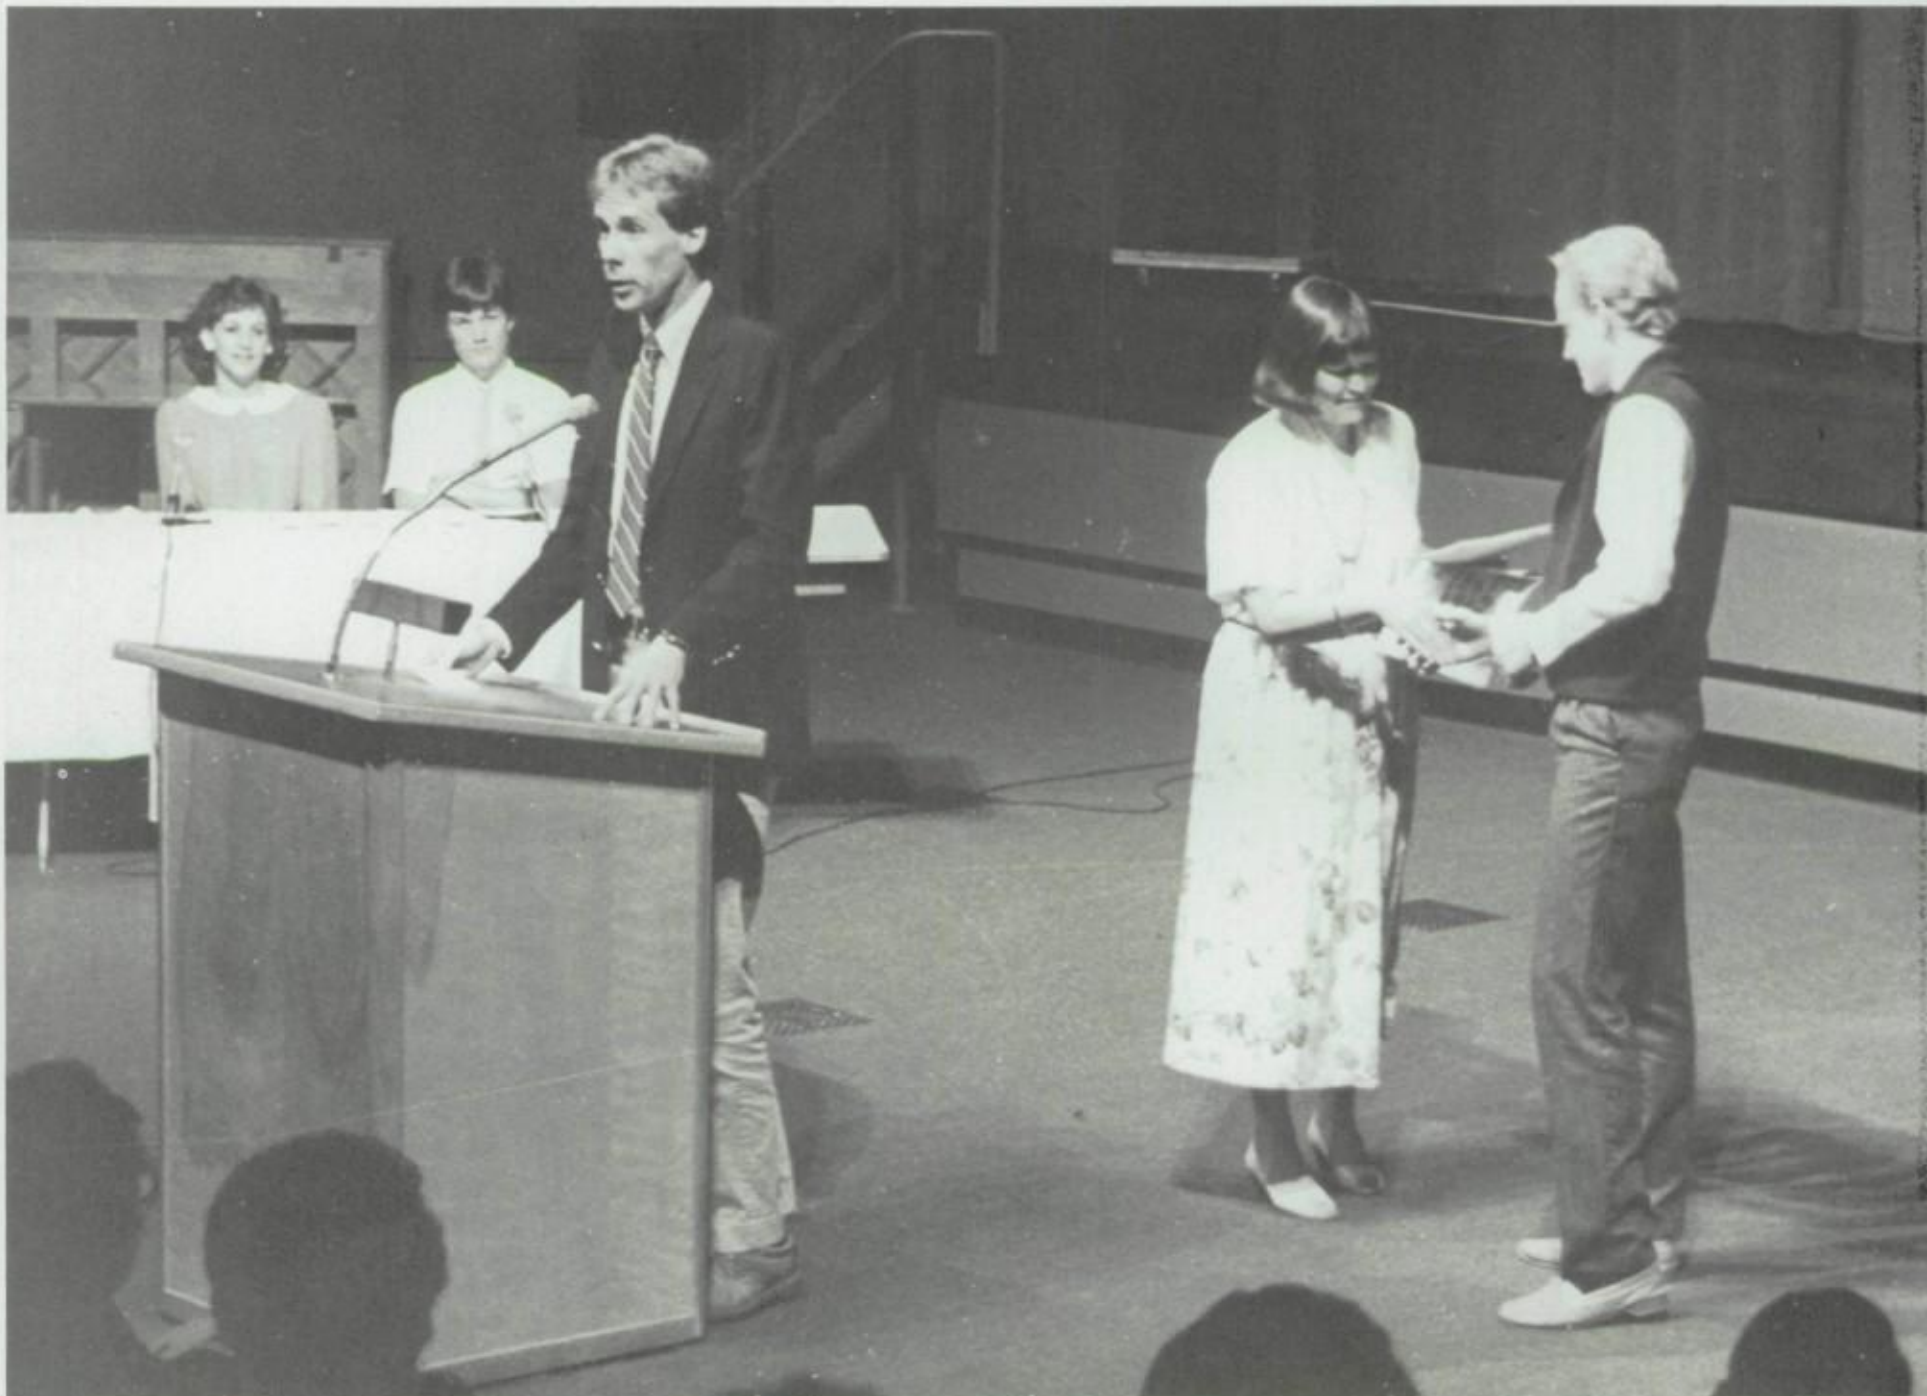

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: Kelly Busch and Tom George enlist the help of Mr. Roger Price to solve a difficult math equation. . . In addition to his efforts in the classroom, George made major contributions to the Scot band, the Key Club, the football team, and the wrestling squad. . . Busch decorates the Christmas Giving Tree, a project of Quahla. She was vice president of Quahla in addition to being a member of the French Club. . . The library was a second home to George as he prepared for an eventual career in biology or medicine. His college plans include either Johns Hopkins University or Stanford.

Seniors Grab Many Honors In Ceremony

Many members of the Class of 1986 shared the spotlight at the Senior Recognition Night held in the PAC. Various awards were given in all fields of academic achievement as well as for outstanding performances in the activities of David Douglas, including athletics, music, and drama. Janelle Morgan and Tom George captured the prestigious Light Awards honoring the most outstanding members of the senior class. Other top honors included the Service Award, given to Bob Day; and the Weigel Award for literary excellence, which was won by Chris Kwok. These along with many college scholarship announcements, classroom achievement recognitions, and a variety of entertainment made this a memorable evening for the seniors, their parents, and many friends.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: A large, attentive audience viewed the awards ceremonies with great interest. . . Entertainment for the evening featured senior talent, such as Wayne Jones playing a violin solo with the chamber orchestra. . . Trevor Dick accepts congratulations from Mrs. Elizabeth Cameron as Mr. Mike Baker announces one of several achievement awards presented by the English department. . . The industrial arts department recognizes the achievements of Merrill South and Dennis Flint. . . Marc Luckenbaugh is honored for his outstanding efforts in the field of business education.

Senior Party Goers Enjoy Annual Event

The class of 1986 celebrated the end of their academic days with a fun-filled evening at Paesano Park. The annual senior party was organized by the class officers and advisers. The various activities included an action-packed softball game, volleyball, and a tug of war prior to the great meal prepared by the Scot coaching staff. Dancing and entertainment featuring various seniors brought the party to a close. The evening came to an end leaving many seniors, faculty, administrators, and parents filled with warm feelings and fond memories.

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: John Morrell gives Susan Liu an impromptu tour of the activities in progress during the senior party . . . The class of 1986 danced the night away at Paesano Park. The evening was one enjoyed by all who attended, including the staff and parents who helped make the night a success . . . Tammy Stamp observes Andrew Lorys as he uses Tyler Phillips' back for a desktop while he signs a message . . . The senior class has many choices of activities to participate in at the senior party. A heated game of volleyball is played before dark while others join in softball, basketball, and games of frisbee before continuing on to dinner and dancing . . . The David Douglas coaching staff cooked up a delicious meal of hamburgers and hot dogs for the seniors to enjoy. Tina Kessler gives Bobbi Porter a package of ketchup for her hamburger while Bridget Morrison decides what to put on her hot dog.

Grads Fill Childes Center With Emotion

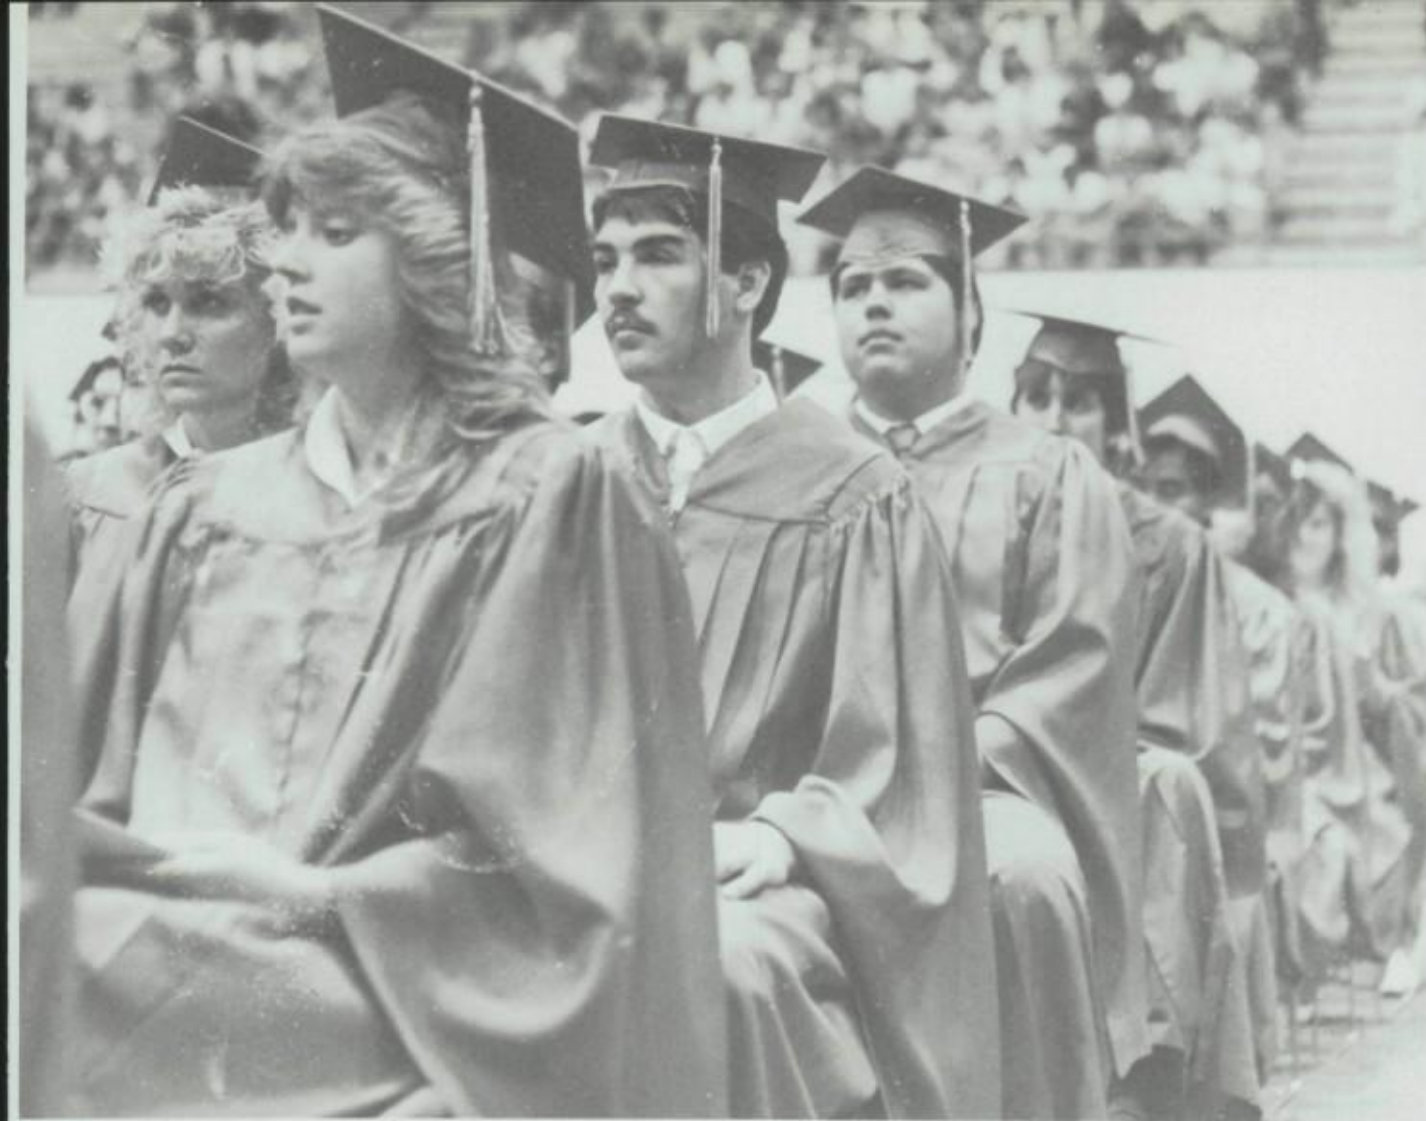

Graduation! The spectacular event which unites the senior class as it has never been before and will never be again took place this year for the first time at the Childes Center on the campus of the University of Portland. The graduating class of 1986 was no exception to tradition as the class members eagerly accepted the long awaited opportunity to stand in the spotlight of academic achievement. The evening ceremony featured the class speakers, Kelly Busch and Janelle Morgan, as well as musical selections by the concert choir. Finally, the attention of the large audience turned on every graduate as the diplomas were awarded. Finally, the Class of 1986 stood together for the last time. In a short moment the four long years were all over.

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: Venus Culbertson and Scott Rush share a moment together prior to the graduation ceremony. . . The joy on the face of Amber Lund reflects the excitement of the entire Class of 1986 on the night of graduation. . . The family of John Waldron join in the celebration of Waldron's graduation. . . The seniors stand together as they await the arrival into the arena hall of their classmates during the processional. . . Assistant Principal Jim Dixon checks the name cards of Becky Lawrence and Kathy Woods to make sure he has the correct pronunciation.

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: The graduating senior class presents an impressive sight as the commencement exercises begin . . . Following the example of his co-Light Award winner, Janelle Morgan, Tom George puts the squeeze on Principal Ray Utz . . . The moment all seniors have longed for is about to finally arrive as they nervously climb the stairs to have their names announced to the audience . . . The grads listen attentively to the remarks of their class speakers, Janelle Morgan and Kelly Busch . . . A group of senior girls make their way toward the Childs Center on the campus of the University of Portland.

ACTIVITIES

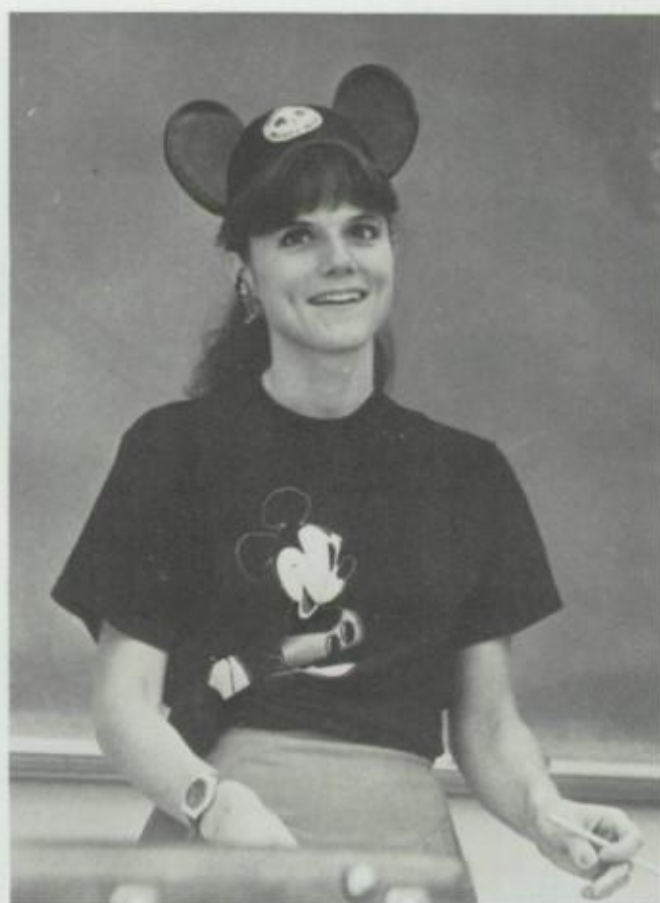

'65 Comes Alive At Homecoming '85

The 1985 Homecoming will definitely be one to be remembered. It proved the Scots were full of spirit, and the football team was ready to take on all competition. The theme for Homecoming "65 Comes Alive," brought back members of the Scots 1965 State Championship team, and they were recognized at an assembly. Included on the team was current teacher Mr. Rick Harrington, a halfback on the team.

Each day of Homecoming presented a new theme for this special event, including Mickey Mouse Day, Surfer Day, Secret Agent Day, '65 Comes Alive Day, and Red and Gray Day. The week ended in a tough game against the Gresham Gophers.

The court consisted of Queen Tracey Mendoza, Junior Princess Ann Han, Sophomore Princess Devonna Dick, and Freshman Princess Shawna Huffman.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: The crowd anxiously watches for the Queen and her court to pass before them ...Escorted by Aron Clayton, Queen Tracey walks gracefully as she enters the gym for the Homecoming assembly ...Mrs. Vicki Miller shows her school spirit by dressing in costume for Mickey Mouse day ...Qualha gave their time and effort to prepare the gym for the assembly ...Ralph Chase, a member of the French Club, offers a token to Queen Tracey.

Hawaii, Hula Bowl Highlight Tams' Year

In addition to their usual fall schedule of performances, the Tams were invited to present their routine at the 1986 Hula Bowl. In preparing for their trip to Hawaii, the Tams organized many fund raisers. The rummage sale in November was just the beginning. They sold candy, had car washes, and held a drawing for a Datsun. One of the biggest and most satisfying fund raisers occurred at Bologna Joe's where the Tams were sponsored by many people according to how many blankets they brought into the agency. Hats and scarfs were also donated. It took much time and effort to earn their way to Hawaii, but it was worth it. For their performance at the Hula Bowl the Tams all received certificates and a team plaque.

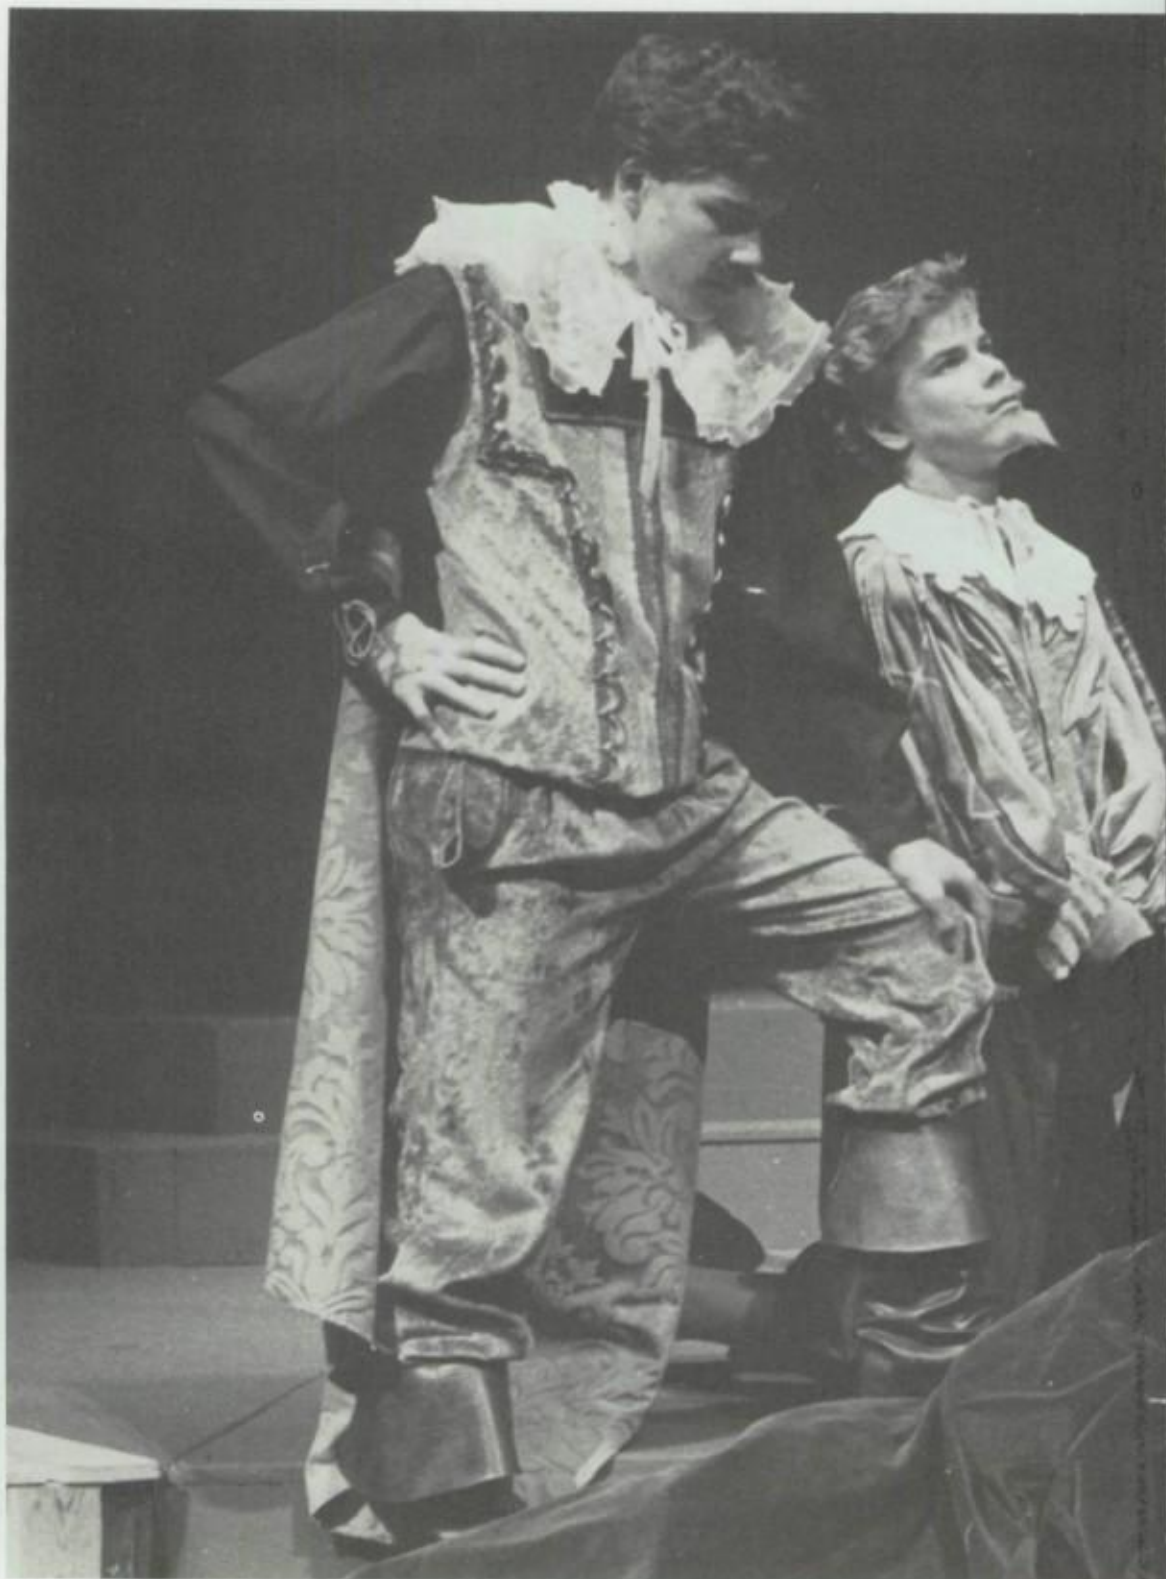

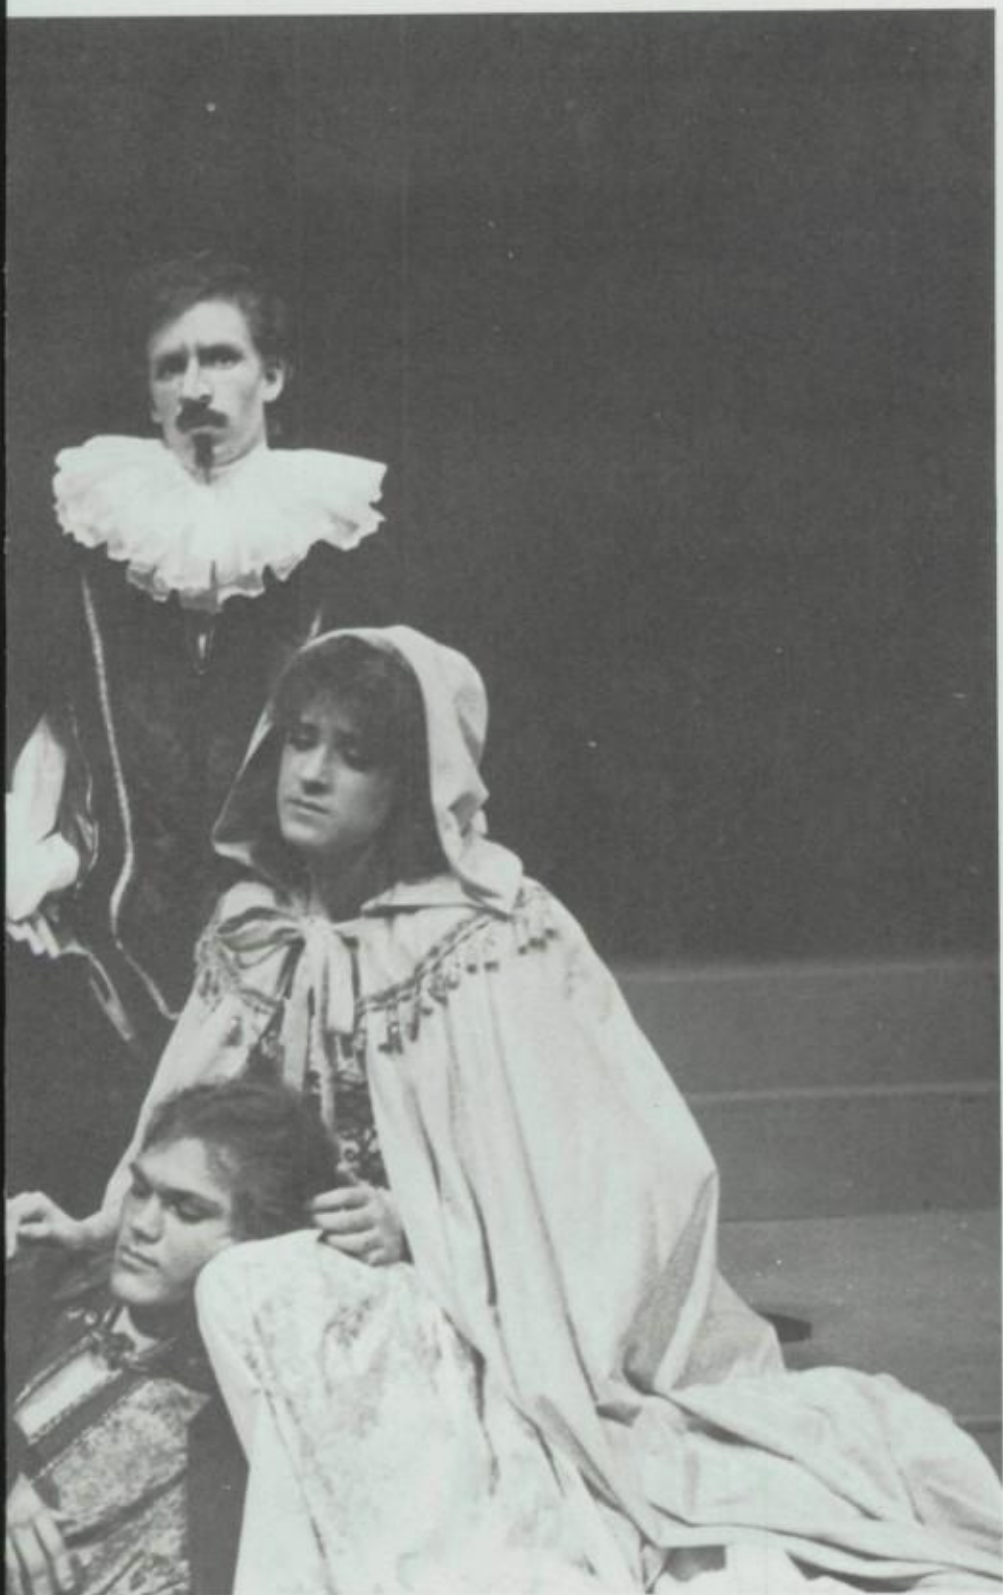

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: Advisor Barbara Lusch practices with the Tams to smooth out all the rough edges . . . As the Tams get ready for an exciting performance, a teammate helps Dori Davenport stretch out . . . The Tams reach high to show the Scots that they are ready for the new school year . . . With big, bright smiles the Tams make it all look easy as they perform at Rex Putnam High School. In this competition the squad took 3rd place . . . The dancers put their best legs forward as they form a kick line during a pep assembly.

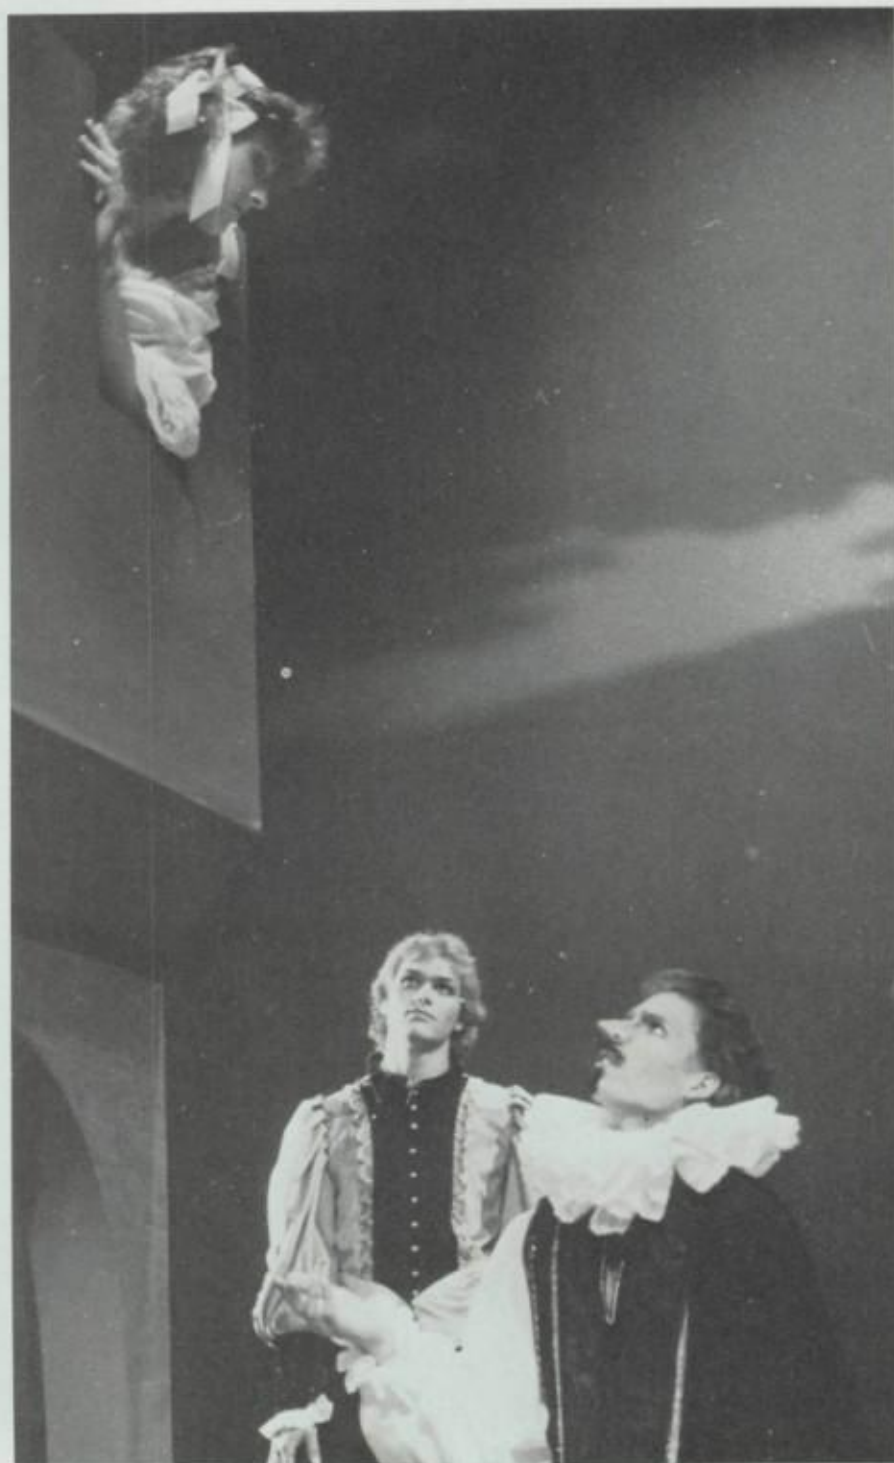

"Cyrano" Returns to Thrill Theater Goers

Cyrano de Bergerac, the fall play, returned to David Douglas again after 21 years. A love story set in Paris, France, this romantic comedy depicts the adventures of Cyrano, who was blessed with a very large nose, and his love affair with his cousin, Roxanne. Complications arise when Christian, a musketeer, also falls in love with her. After some time Cyrano decides to help Christian by prompting him with romantic words. Roxanne falls in love with Christian, unaware that she really loves Cyrano. Pat Schroeder starred in the role of Cyrano. His character was ably supported by a strong cast which included Laura Bordeaux (Roxanne), Troy Standing (Christian), Mike Kackman (Le Bret), Duane Larsen (Comte de Guiche), Jim Anderson (Roqueneau), and Paula Draper (Duenna).

Scots Make Annual Trek To Dog Patch

As the years go by, the annual Sadie Hawkins dance continues to be one of the school's most popular social events. Sponsored by the freshman class, the dance again this year drew a large, enthusiastic crowd of dancers and partiers. The frosh, led by class president Erik Bolme, worked hard to plan and decorate for the dance, which included the traditional marriage ceremony presided over by the "Reverend" Randy Brown who has become a fixture at the dance. Many of the Scots and their dates also took the opportunity to have their pictures taken by Conway Bruno Studio as a keepsake of a most memorable evening.

Budding Attorneys Score In Competition

Held in actual court rooms at the Multnomah County Court House, the annual mock trial competition mirrored real life court drama. Led by Chris Kwok and Edwin Lau, who competed last year, twenty-three Douglas juniors and seniors participated in the month-long exposure to the justice system. Although winning only one of three separate contests, the Scot team gave an excellent account of itself, and according to the team's advisor, Mr. Jim Etzkorn, "Douglas showed much improvement over our efforts in previous years."

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: Edwin Lau hurriedly makes notes as he listens to the opposing lawyers quiz the witness . . . With her wig in place, Lisa McInnis portrays an older woman as she takes the witness stand to give her testimony . . . Addressing the bench, Ric Ramirez offers his opening argument . . . Awaiting their turns to participate in the competition, Chris Adams, Chris Kwok, and Lori Bittleston pay close attention as the case unfolds . . . Byron Bressel is administered the oath by the court bailiff.

Rally Efforts Help Scot Spirit Soar

Starting early in the summer with their participation in a rally camp held at the University of Puget Sound, the Scot rally squad worked hard to promote spirit throughout the school year. Led by rally captains Cora Best and Suzy Rentfrow, the girls held car washes, sponsored a dance, and sold candy and balloonograms to raise money to buy uniforms and to finance their trip to Alaska with the basketball team during Christmas vacation. All of their planning and hard work resulted in some of the most spirited pep assemblies in the school's history as Scot spirit continued to grow under the guidance of this talented and dedicated group of girls.

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: Jill Burton, Amelia Al-Rubaie, and Michelle Heyden relax on the sideline during one of the many pep assemblies . . . The football rally leads the crowd in cheering on the Scots during the Reynolds game . . . The rally is visible not only at athletic contests but also at other school functions. Here Suzy Rentfrow and Lori Bittleston serve refreshments to Mrs. Linda Shanahan at a faculty reception . . . Al-Rubaie leaps high as she and the rally fire up the student body . . . All of the rallies, including the varsity basketball rally do their best to encourage Scot spirit.

Choir, Orchestra Entertain Audiences

Many hours of hard practices resulted in near flawless performances by both the choir and the orchestra. The choir groups, under the able direction of Mr. Curtis Holloway, were heard throughout the year entertaining at the various assemblies as well as in concert performances. In addition, the vocalists took their sounds into the community as the choir and the vocal jazz ensemble were in demand by various organizations. The orchestra also displayed a high level of musicianship in their several concerts and other outings. This dedicated group of musicians has worked extremely hard in recent years to improve their skills, and they are now recognized as being one of the finest high school orchestras in the Pacific Northwest.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: Flutist Jennifer Harrigan concentrates on her music as she and the orchestra play a difficult work of Bach . . . An outstanding special feature of this year's orchestra was the violin quartette which featured Christain Seapy, Sherry Garrett, Kerry Jo Renfro, and Tammy Stamp . . . The string section provides the melody to the orchestra's sound . . . The concert choir in concert during the holiday season presents an impressive sight.

Seniors Dominate One Act Awards

The seniors walked away with most of the top honors at the 26th annual one act play festival. The senior play, "The Dollar", won the award for the best production. It was produced and directed by Joelle Anthony. Andrew Garrettson, a lead in "The Dollar", grabbed the Best Actor title. Best Actress winner Jill Burton starred in the junior production of "Big Red Riding Hood". For his stagecraft work on the set of "The Dollar", Jon Field was voted winner of the best set design. All of the productions were produced, directed, acted, and designed by the students enrolled in stagecraft and advanced drama as part of their required class work.

Assemblies Highlight The School Year

As usual the traditional assemblies and pep sessions were a part of the school calendar. However, this year there was a big difference: we had great assemblies! Starting with the football pep rallies with such special themes as Sign Day and Noise Day and ending with the memorable Christmas assembly during which we made the gym ring with our rousing rendition in class competition of "The Twelve Days of Christmas", we made the assemblies come alive with our enthusiasm and spirit. Credit for the success of these assemblies certainly must go to activity director Chuck Osborne, the rally squads, and those individuals who participated in the skits and competitions, but most of all the credit belongs to the members of the student body who made these assemblies really rock!

Canada, EXPO 1986 Beckon Scot Band

A long, very busy year for the Scot band was capped by a very successful trip to the World's Fair in Vancouver, B.C. Invited by the EXPO commission as well as the State of Oregon, the band spent 5 days in Vancouver giving several concert performances in addition to enjoying the sights of the Fair and the city. Prior to this experience, both the band and the jazz ensemble were extremely busy with marching in the fall at the football games and with a full schedule of concerts and competitions throughout the winter and spring months. After returning home from British Columbia, the band made its final appearance of the year marching in the Rose Festival Grand Floral Parade.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: Under the able baton of Maestro Larry Morrell the concert band plays a medley of carols during the Christmas concert. . . In addition to formal concerts a major responsibility of the Scot band is marching. This year Bret Johnson and his fellow bandsmen marched not only at the football games but also in the Rose Festival parade. . . Dwight West and Sid Louie lend their talents to the clarinet section of the band. . . The skills of the school's best instrumentalists are put to the test each year in the award winning Scot jazz ensemble.

Dads And Daughters Enjoy Annual Event

An event which has grown in appeal with each passing year, the annual Father-Daughter Banquet again this year attracted a large, enthusiastic crowd of Scot father-daughter couples. Sponsored by the David Douglas Dads Club, the evening began with an excellent meal served to the guests by the members of the varsity wrestling team. Following the after dinner speeches and the awarding of various door prizes, the dads and their daughters were entertained by offerings from the Scot drama and music departments. The festive evening came to a successful close with dancing to the music of the jazz ensemble.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: As the evening continues, Laura Bennett dances slowly with her father, Steve Bennett, to a song that will end too quickly . . . John McIlmoil, one of the wrestlers serving at the banquet, kindly helps Michelle Heyden and Stacey Grogan by pouring punch for them . . . While the band plays music the fathers all remember, Kris Jahannesen and her father, Steve Jahannesen, "swing" to the beat . . . The David Douglas Jazz Band plays music of yesterday and today . . . At the close of the banquet Grogan walks away with her prize, the centerpiece at her table.

Latin Culture Comes Alive At Douglas

The study of Spanish during the past several years has taken on added meaning to a select group of students. As members of a singing and dancing troop known as La Abetuna Rosal and Xochitl respectively, these students spend many hours outside of the classroom studying, planning, practicing, and performing authentic Spanish folk dances and songs. This year the group performed in Tacoma, Washington at the Regional Association of Foreign Language Teachers Convention in addition to various engagements in Oregon. This summer some of these students will once again travel to Guadalajara, Mexico where they will study at the School of Fine Arts and Dance of Jalisco.

Scots Lend Support To Budget Passage

Faced with the definite threat of a school closure in mid-February due to the failure to pass the budget, Douglas students decided to take an active role in the community and in their own personal futures. Acting upon an idea of Sandra Reed, seniors Bob Day and Jeff Lesowski provided the leadership in planning and staging a very successful campaign to draw the community's attention to the plight of the schools. The campaign included a large student march through the neighborhood near the school, ending with an enthusiastic rally in the gym. These efforts contributed much toward the overwhelmingly favorable vote on election day.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: Much in evidence throughout the budget election crisis was the news media. The students' campaign efforts were even covered on the national news. . . To the chant of "Stop the Rock!", Robin French makes an impassioned plea for student involvement to get out the vote. . . Inclement weather dampened neither desire or spirit on the neighborhood march preceding the rally. . . A highlight of the rally was a presentation by the thespians. . . Jeff Lesowski and Ric Ramirez helped to decorate the school halls with colorful signs drawing attention to the crisis.

May Fete Festivities Involve Student Body

With "Raindrops And Roses" as its theme, the annual May Fete week proved to be a highly successful event again this year. After the traditional screening process, the student body chose Thea Nuutinen as the May Fete queen. Bill Blevins was picked as Queen Thea's escort. The remainder of the Court consisted of Cora Best, Suzy Rentfrow, Lori Bittleston, Kathy Gray, Janelle Morgan, Susan Liu, Kim Kniss, Holly Jackson, and Lisa Heil. The escorts included Pat Rawlins, Jeff Lesowski, Brian Fong, Edwin Lau, Song Kim, Wayne Jones, Chris Collins, Trevor Dick, and Aboody El-Kahl. The royalty reigned over a full week of events including the Queen's Desert, the Coronation assembly, and a May Fete dance. In addition, each day of May Fete Week was a special dress day.

"Fiddler" Plays To Enthuastic Audiences

In the final theatrical effort of the school year, the music and drama departments combined their efforts and talents to produce "Fiddler On The Roof", with superb sets designed and constructed by the stage craft class and accompanied by the members of the orchestra, the thespians sang and danced their way into the hearts of the audiences with each performance. The principal parts in the musical were acted by Mac Wilcox, Laura Bordeaux, Tera Hedlund, Jill Burton, and Jenelle Lamont. The strong cast of supporting actors and actresses included Chris Haner, Dori Davenport, Ron Rood, Mike Kackman, and Steve Towery.

Scot Couples Dance Night Away At Prom

On an evening which has always been special to many, a large crowd of Scots and their dates found their way up Scouters' Mountain for the Junior-Senior Prom. As the guests arrived, they were driven from the parking lot to the lodge in chauffeured limousines, which added an extra touch of class to the event. Once in the lodge the dancing was continuous, interrupted only for refreshment, conversations with friends, and the traditional formal picture taking session for those couples who wished a permanent memory of the evening. Coupled with the dinners and other activities which occurred both before and after the dance, it was an evening full of fond memories for all.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: Tammy Moore and Mike Arnold stand in line as they wait for their order to be taken for their pictures . . . SPORTS

Varsity Football Finishes Third

The Scots varsity football team finished the regular season with a hard fought victory over Parkrose to end with a 5-3 Mount Hood Conference record, good enough to tie with Barlow for third place. A number of Scots were selected for the all-league team. Jeff Lesowski and Troy Nixon won first team all conference honors for offense and Bill Blevins along with Mike Hutchins gained first team defense status. Second team recognition went to Blevins and Scott Dollens on offense and Lesowski on defense. Al Blain, David Cloud, Jason Ward, Mark Wreath, Todd Findley, Jason Stanchfield, and Steve Pyne all gained honorable mention. Although many seniors are leaving, many juniors gained excellent experience and will give the team another hard hitting season next year.

Volleyball Nets A Winning Season

The varsity volleyball team concluded its season with a 9-7 record. The toughest loss came at the hands of the highly regarded Sandy Pioneers, bumping the Scots to fourth place in the final standings. All conference honors went to Michelle Duncan who received second team honors. Honorable mention went to Lori Bittleston, Vicki Casey, Kim Volk, Theresa Sakaguchi, and junior Nicole Olds. "We're losing a group of talented individuals, and a big nucleus of the team," said Coach Jane Miller. Nevertheless, the volleyball team is expected to have another good season next year with the return of Duncan and Olds along with other experienced players.

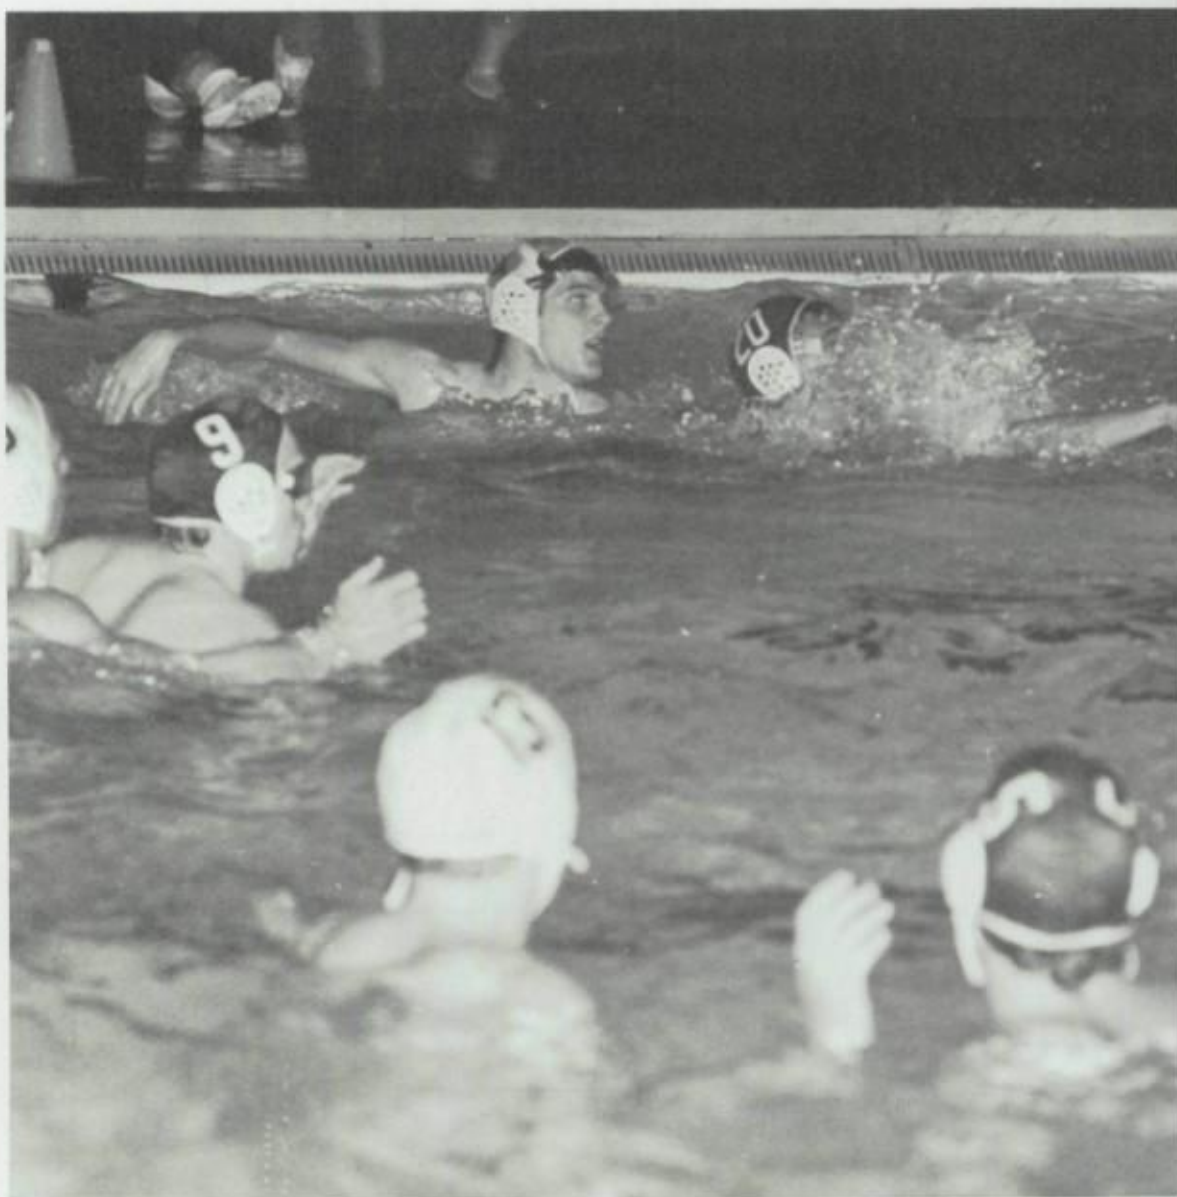

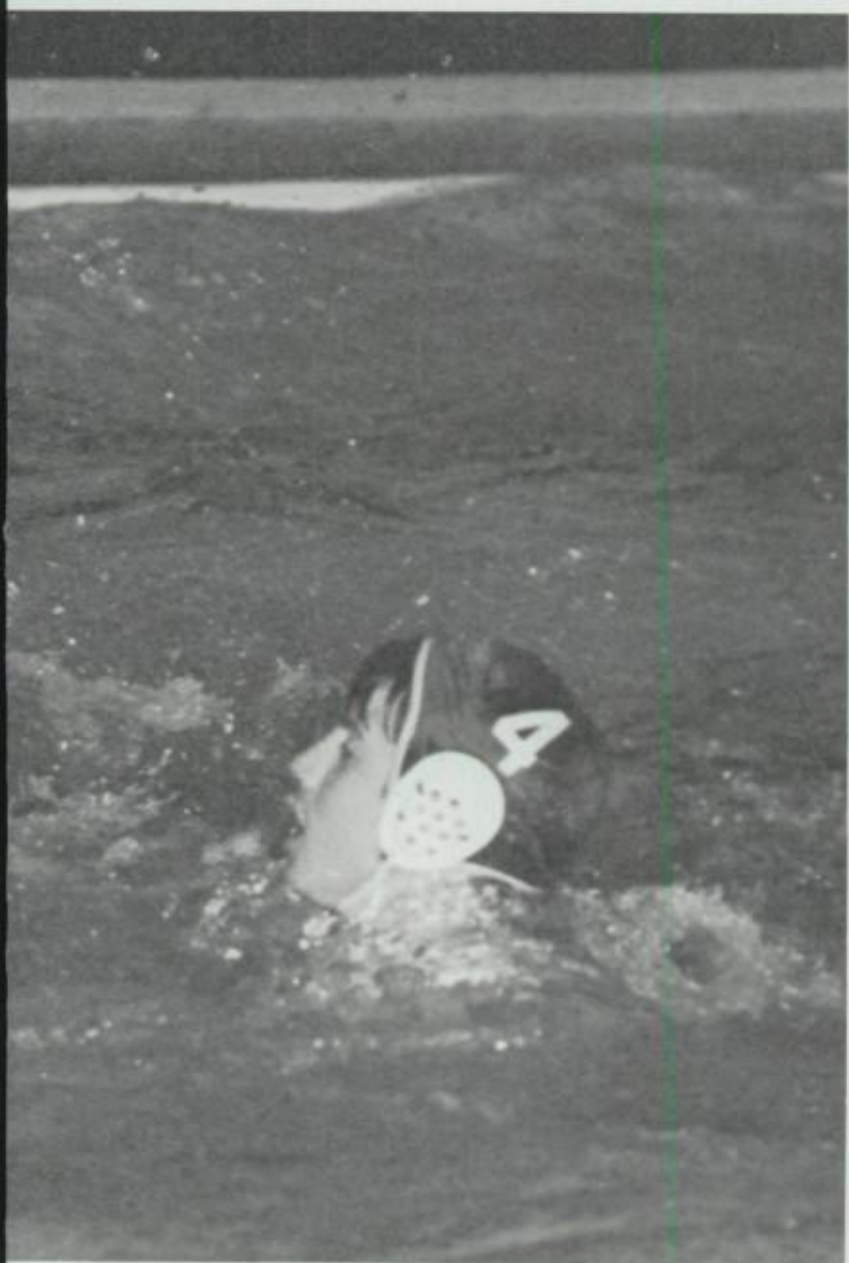

CLOCKWISE, ABOVE: Dropping to the floor, Michell Duncan digs out a hard spike and begins the return volley . . . Polo Squad Grabs Second at State

The boys' water polo team had another outstanding season. Although they didn't take State, they finished a strong second and proved to still have that Scotsman pride. The talented Scots dominated their competition throughout the season and finished the year with a 23-1-1 record. The squad showed great talent with such standouts as Andrew Lorys, Dennis Jakobson, Dave Garcia, and Mike Nash. According to Coach Roy Clark, the team played with aggressiveness and skill. "They are very dedicated, and competitive," Clark said. Despite the loss of several experienced players, the Scots should dominate again next year.

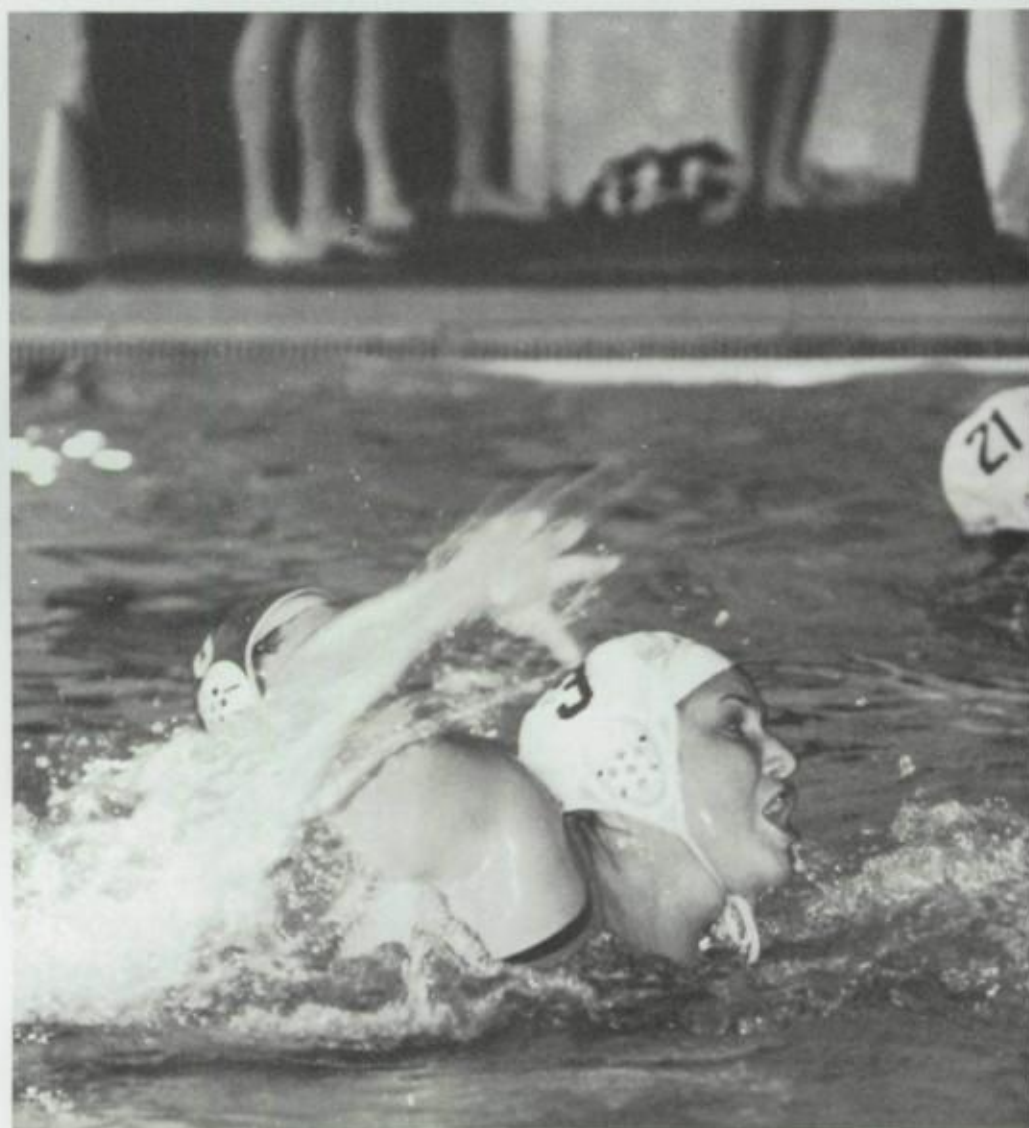

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: While the ball is up for grabs, the Scots show their speed in the water by quickly moving towards the opposing player ...The squad advances the ball to set up an easily gained goal ...Goal tender Mike Nash prepares to throw the ball to a teammate after the opponent's attempt to score fails ...An unidentified Scot passes to his teammate as they try to set up an exciting goal.

Poloists Dominate Mt. Hood League

Led by the outstanding play of Kim Raeburn, the League's most valuable player, the Scots girls water polo team totally dominated the Mt. Hood Conference this year. The Scots went undefeated in league play during the season and captured first place at the District playoffs. Unfortunately a late season injury to Raeburn hurt the squad's chances at State where they placed fourth. Other mainstays of the team included Linda Griffith and Tammy Phillips along with freshmen Lynn Kokas and Michelle Howe. Griffith was superb at the State meet and was named to the All State first team for her outstanding effort.

Improvement Shown By Scot Kickers

The boys varsity soccer team fielded an improved team this year. Although they were able to score only one victory and one tie against Mt. Hood League opponents, the overall record stood at 5-6-2 at the season's end against all competition. Leading the Scots were seniors Greg Martin, Matts Norgren, Khamsouk Chanthavong, and Ted Young. Also making a major contribution to the team's success was Phonesavan Chanthavong, who achieved All League honorable mention honors.

Soccer Team Faces Optimistic Future

The chance for a successful season was soon washed away as lack of experience crippled the Scots. Adding to the team's difficulties was the fact that four of the teams in the Mount Hood League were ranked in the top ten in the State. The Scots ended the season with a 0-12-1 record. In spite of this record the girls played with great spunk and aggressiveness. Also, many talented players gained valuable experience and are expected to be the nucleus of next year's team. Strong contributors to the team included Christy McQueen, who was acclaimed the team's most valuable player; and Doreen Hein and Kristi Newberry, both of whom were voted the most improved players on the squad.

Scott Runners Claim Seventh at State

The undefeated boys' cross country team concluded its season with a seventh place finish at State. Throughout the season the Scots dominated conference meets and entered the district meet with an 8-0 record. At district Douglas placed Clay Huml and Tyler Phillips on the first team, all conference; sophomore Chris Jashbaugh, second team; Weeden Cole, honorable mention. Assistant Coach Mike Baker commented, "This group ran very well as a team and it's sad to see the seniors go." This hard fighting group will be missed; however, they will be replaced by very good talent next year.

Injuries, Lack Of Depth Hurt Scots

A very young, inexperienced girls' cross country team was plagued throughout the season with injuries to key runners. Sophomore Ashley Streitmatter, rated by Coach Randy Brown as being one of the top three harriers in the Mt. Hood Conference, went down early in the season with an injury which hampered her performance for the remainder of the year. In spite of these problems, the Scots still managed to post a very respectable 4-4 season's record as Laura Mullen and Jennifer Brown contributed many points to the Scots' cause. The experience gained this year should make the team a strong contender for the league title next season.

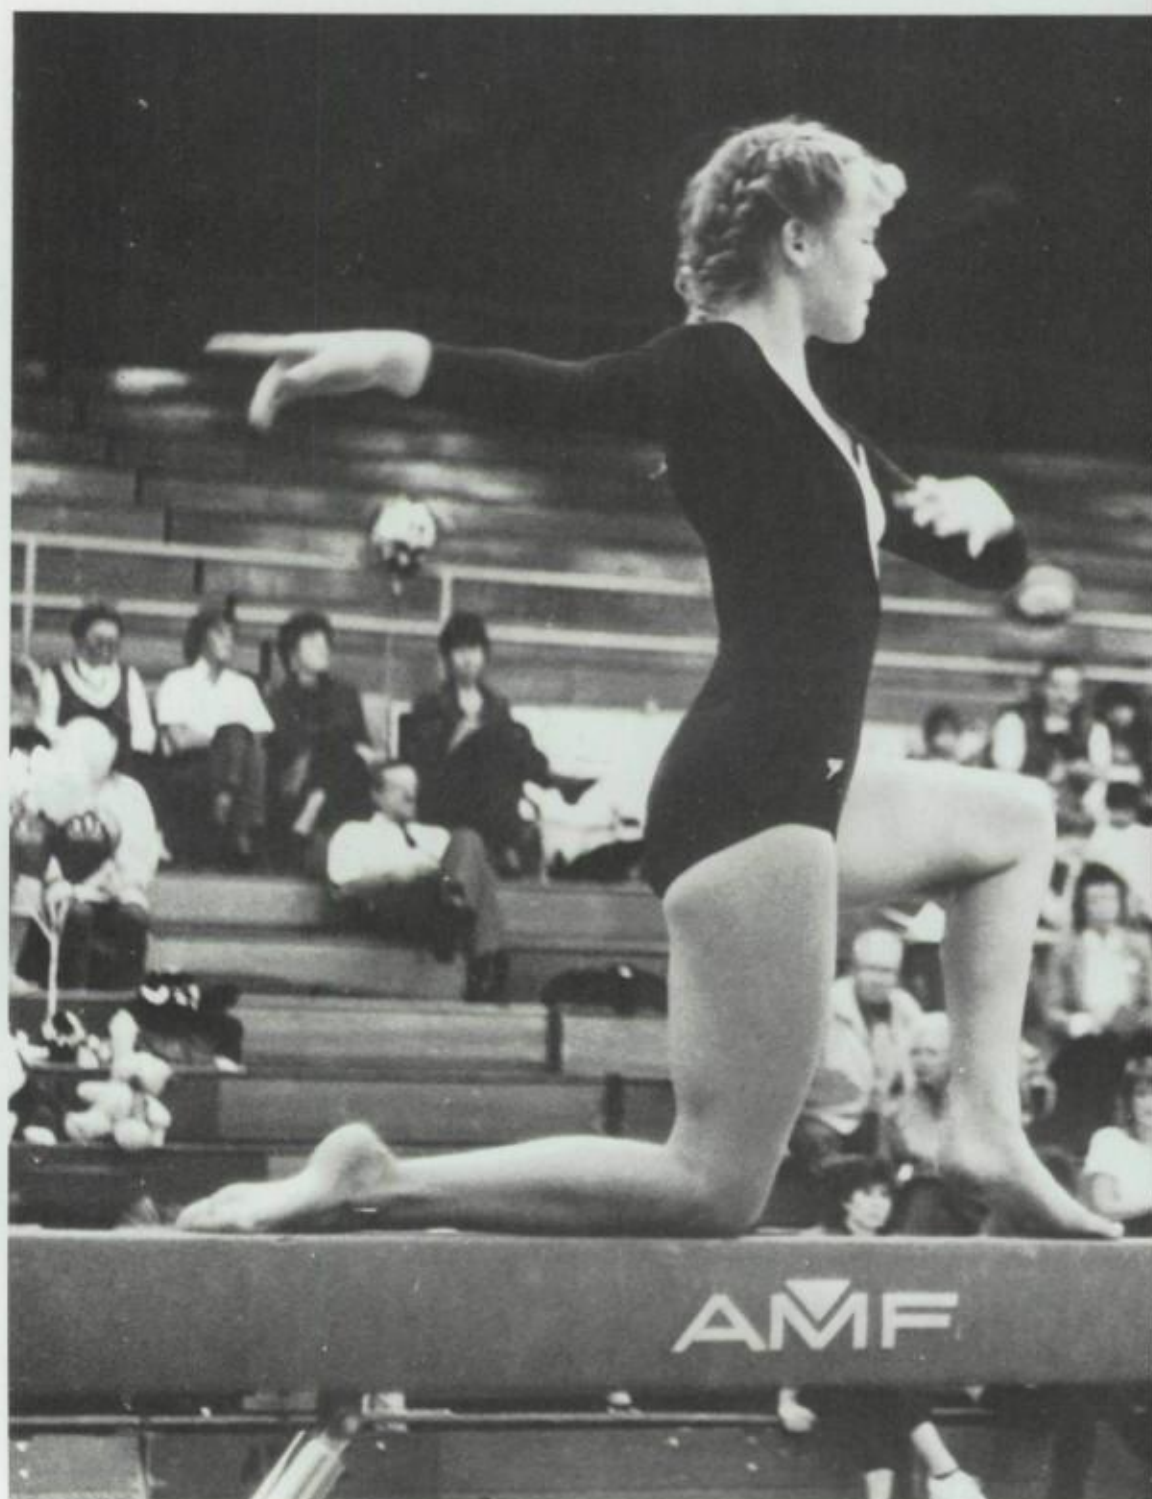

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: Ashley Streitmatter gets an assuring and congratulating hug from Bob Day after winning a long and tiring race . . . The Scots immediately dominate as the race begins . . . Fatigue sets in as Streitmatter rounds the track, cheered on by members of the boys' team . . . The Scot runners make their way into the woods as the race enters its final stage . . . Gymnasts Improve, Gain Third At State Coming off a 2 win, 3 loss regular season, the Scot girls gymnastic squad placed a very respectable third at the District meet. Led by co-captains Deanna Peters and Janelle Morgan, the team showed steady improvement throughout the season. In addition to the performance of Peters, who was voted the team's most valuable gymnast, the Scots got strong contributions from Bridget Kochans, Jeri Gee, Amy Trachel, and Angela Pierce. Losing only Peters and Morgan to graduation, the gymnastic team will field a veteran group next year and should challenge for the League title.

Young Scots Gain Game Experience

Participating at all levels of the fall sports program, underclass athletes made major contributions to the Scots sports fortunes this year. Among the underclass teams the most successful was the JV football squad which posted a fine 8-1 season's record. Other underclass teams, while not as successful, provided the young athletes the opportunity to practice their skills in real game situations. On the individual level sophomores, juniors, and even some freshmen could be found playing key roles in the successes of the varsity cross-country teams, the water polo squads, and the gymnastic team. All of this competitive experience will add much to varsity level teams next year.

Scots Share League Title; Lose Playoffs

It was a dogfight all season long as the Scot boys basketball team fought to win the championship of the Mt. Hood League. Starting the season strongly only to falter in midseason, the team rallied to tie The Dalles for the league title. Unfortunately, the Scots lost the playoff game to The Dalles and thus were dropped into the playoff round prior to the State tourney. The season came to a close with the playoff loss to Willamette. Much credit for the successful season must go to the seniors on the team. These included Bill Blevins, Brian Fong, Rob Bell, Scott Dollens, Todd Findlay, Doug Nichols, Nick Marshall, Scott Fresvik, Rick Byram, and Andy Spreadborough.

Scot Girls Falter In League Competition

The tough competition in the Mt. Hood League proved to be a major obstacle for the Scots girls basketball team. Although they posted a league record of only 4 wins against 12 defeats, the team finished the season with a respectable overall record of 9-13. Leading the Scots were seniors Tammy Phillips, Mary Ann Baird, Andrea Orazio, and Teresa Sakaguchi. Underclass girls who saw extensive playing time and who will form a strong nucleus for next year's squad include Alissa Gierloff, Liz Sherman, Kim Moilan, Stacey Grogan, and Courtney Hergert.

Scots Take District, Second At State

The boys swim team produced another outstanding year, finishing the regular season with a 10-0 record, and captured the Mount Hood League championship. At the State competition the Scots took second place. Outstanding swimmers included Andrew Lorys, 500 yard freestyle; John Kelley, 100 meter freestyle; Jason Kelley, 500 yard freestyle; Dennis Jacobson, 100 meter breast stroke; David Garcia, 100 meter back stroke. Lorys, a senior, had a very impressive year. He splashed his way to first place at State in his event, and his efforts won him a chance to compete at the Senior Nationals in Florida.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: Outstanding swimmer Todd Raeburn churns the water during the butterfly event and captures a win . . . The Scot swimmers listen intently to coach Bert Stratton as he gives his instructions . . . Andrew Lorys, a senior swimmer, competes in the 500 yard free-style. Lorys had a great season and will be missed next year . . . Steve Antone does the breast stroke to splash his way to first place . . . In the back stroke competition Raeburn (shown here) and David Garcia accounted for many Scot points.

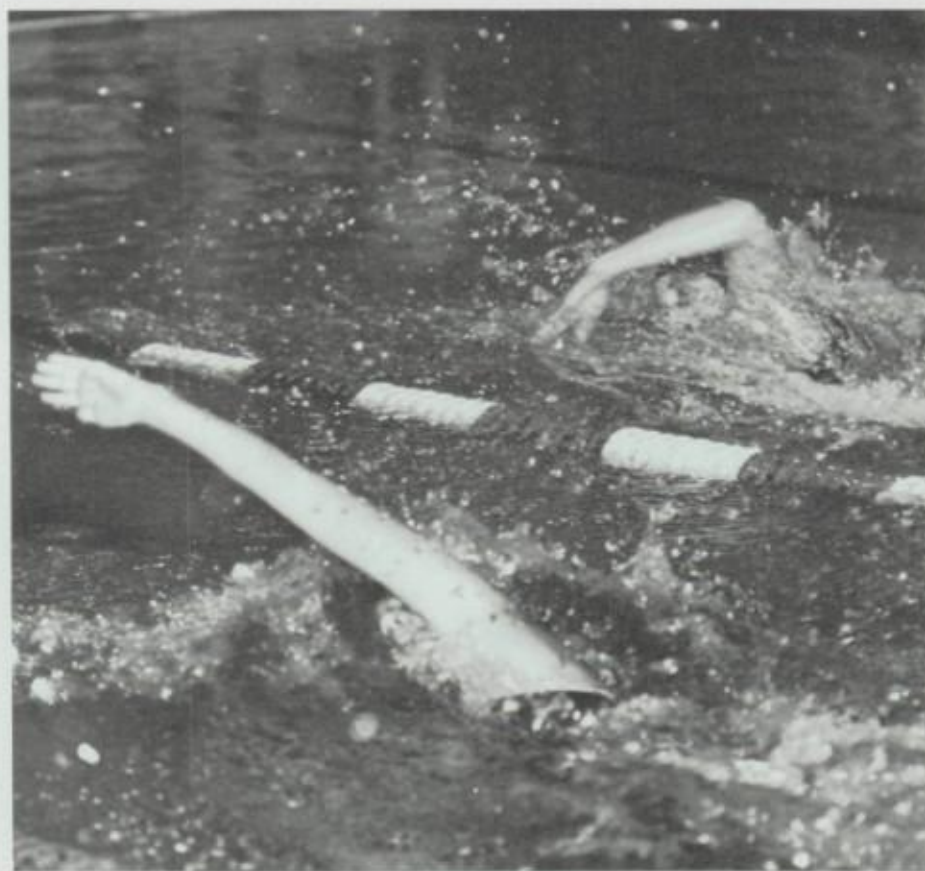

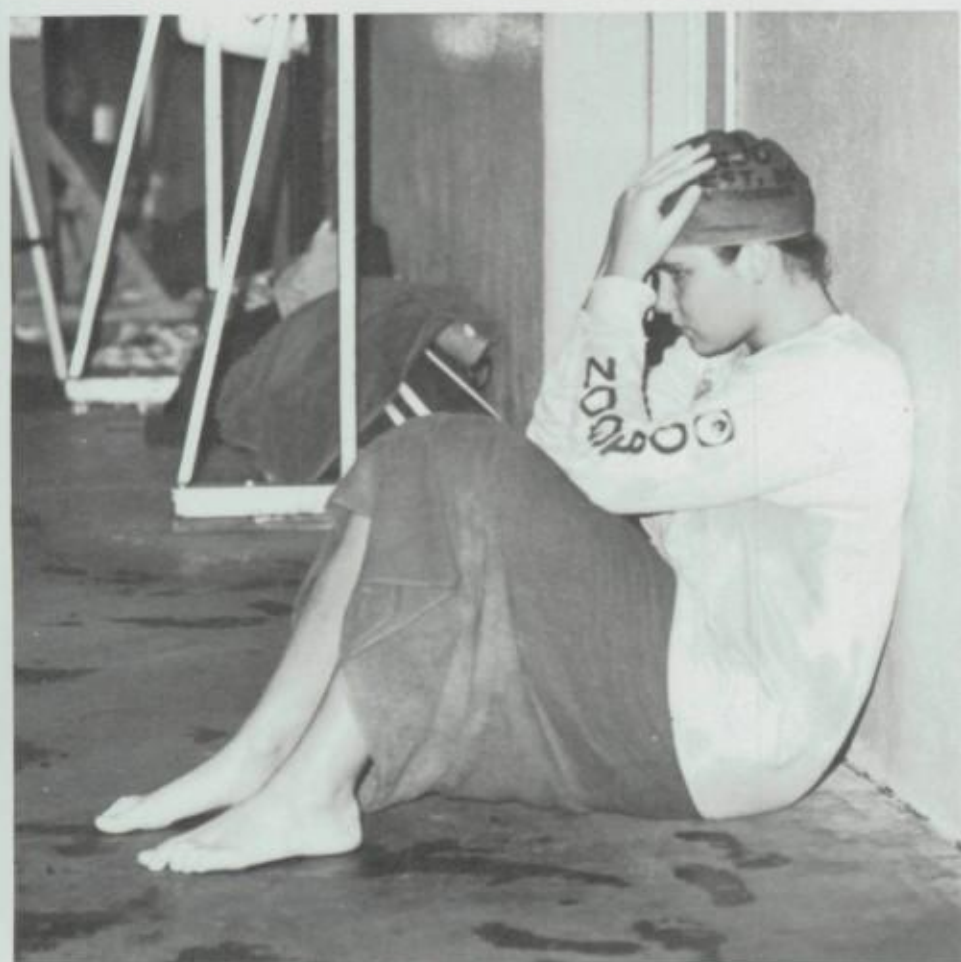

Swimmers Produce Outstanding Season

The girls swim team produced another excellent year, finishing out the regular season with a 9-1 record. This record led them into the District meet where they captured first place. Outstanding swimmers included Monica Amos, 50 meter freestyle and 100 meter freestyle; Kim Raeburn, 100 meter backstroke and 200 meter Individual Medley; and Sarah Olson, 200 meter freestyle and 500 meter freestyle. Amos placed first at District in her event. In addition to Amos and Olson, other underclass swimmers who gained valuable experience and who will help the Scots next year were Lynn Kokas, Robin Peterson, and Michelle Howe.

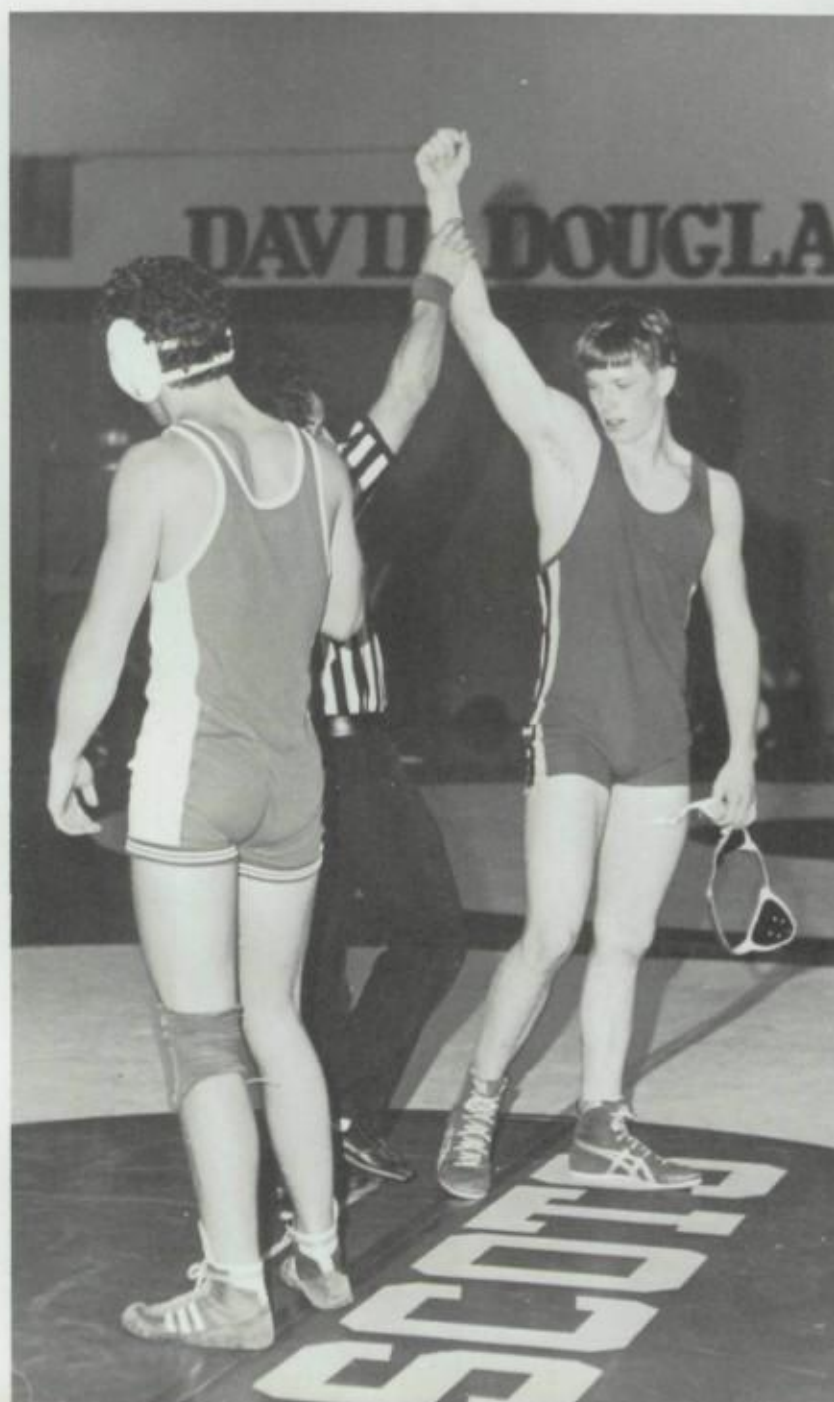

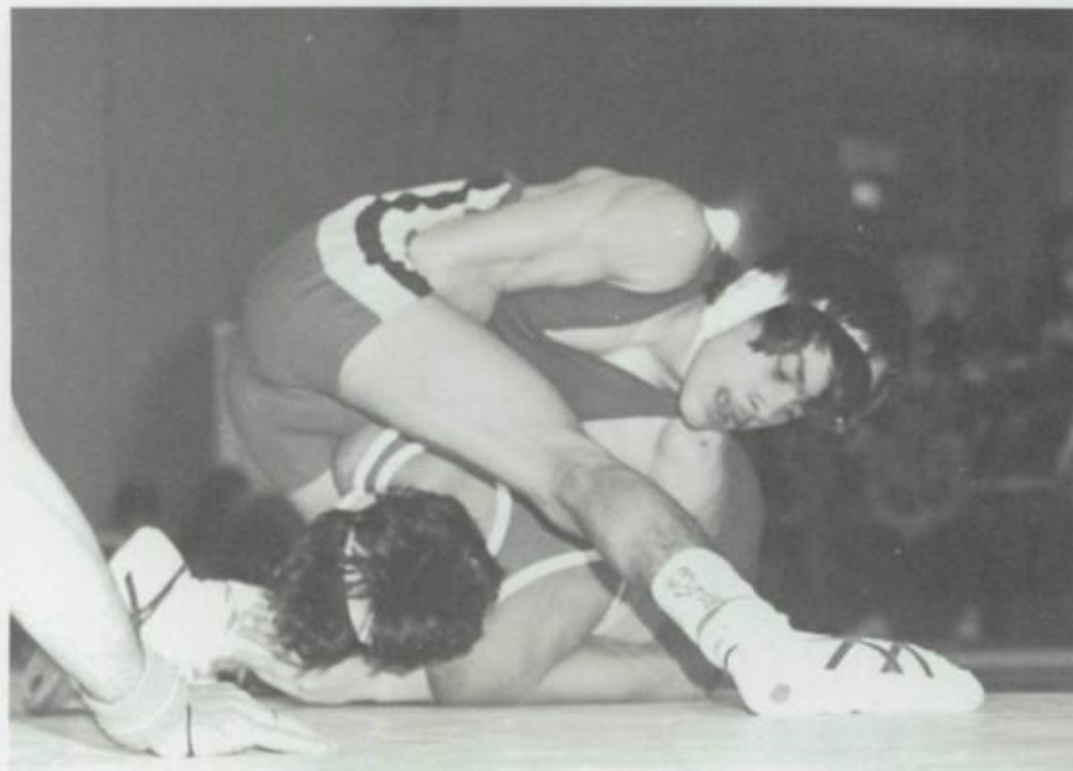

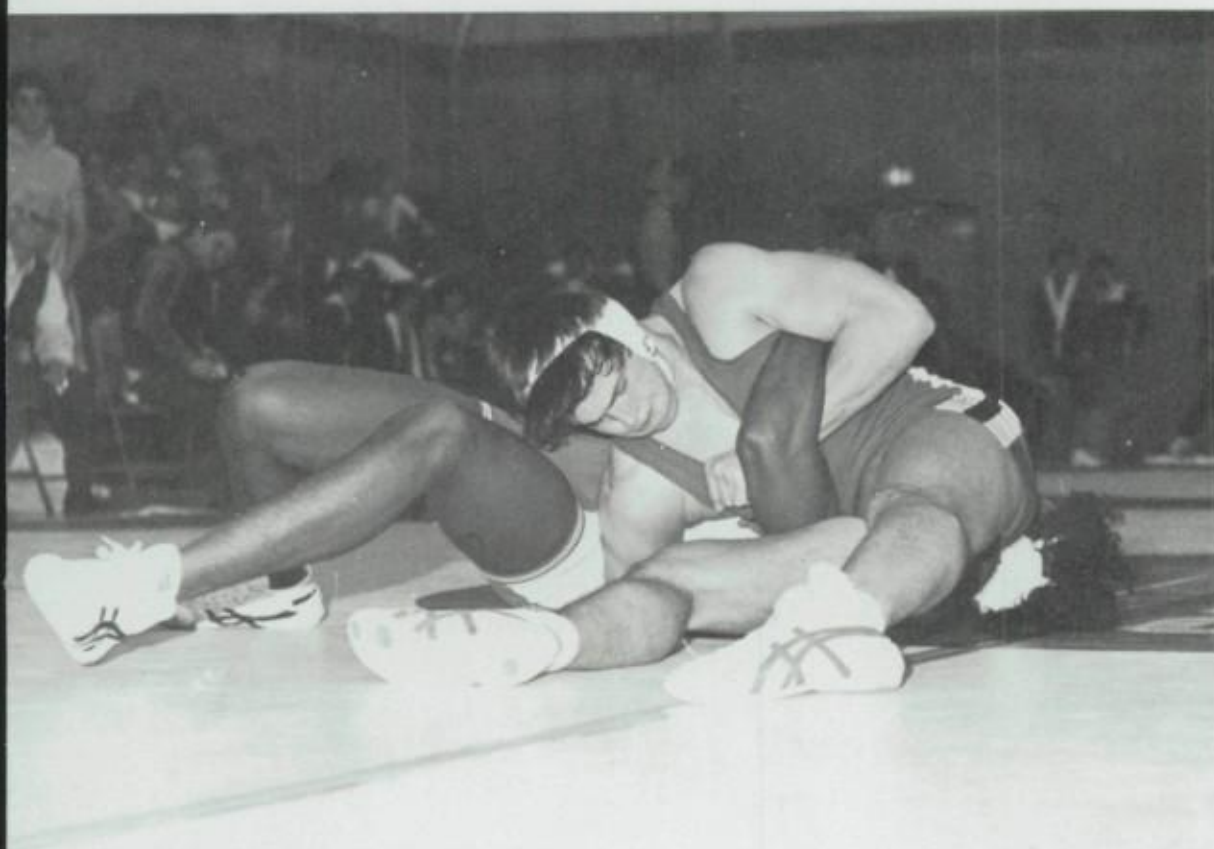

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: Monica Amos splashes her way to the finish line doing the free-style . . . Outstanding swimmer Kim Raeburn feels the emotional strain as she concentrates for her next race . . . Lynn Kokas reveals near perfect form as she competes in the backstroke event . . . Cora Kokas holds the lap number under water for a Scot swimmer while Shannon Hall cheers her on . . . Exploding out of the water, Jennifer Harrigan heads for the home stretch in the 100 meter butterfly event.

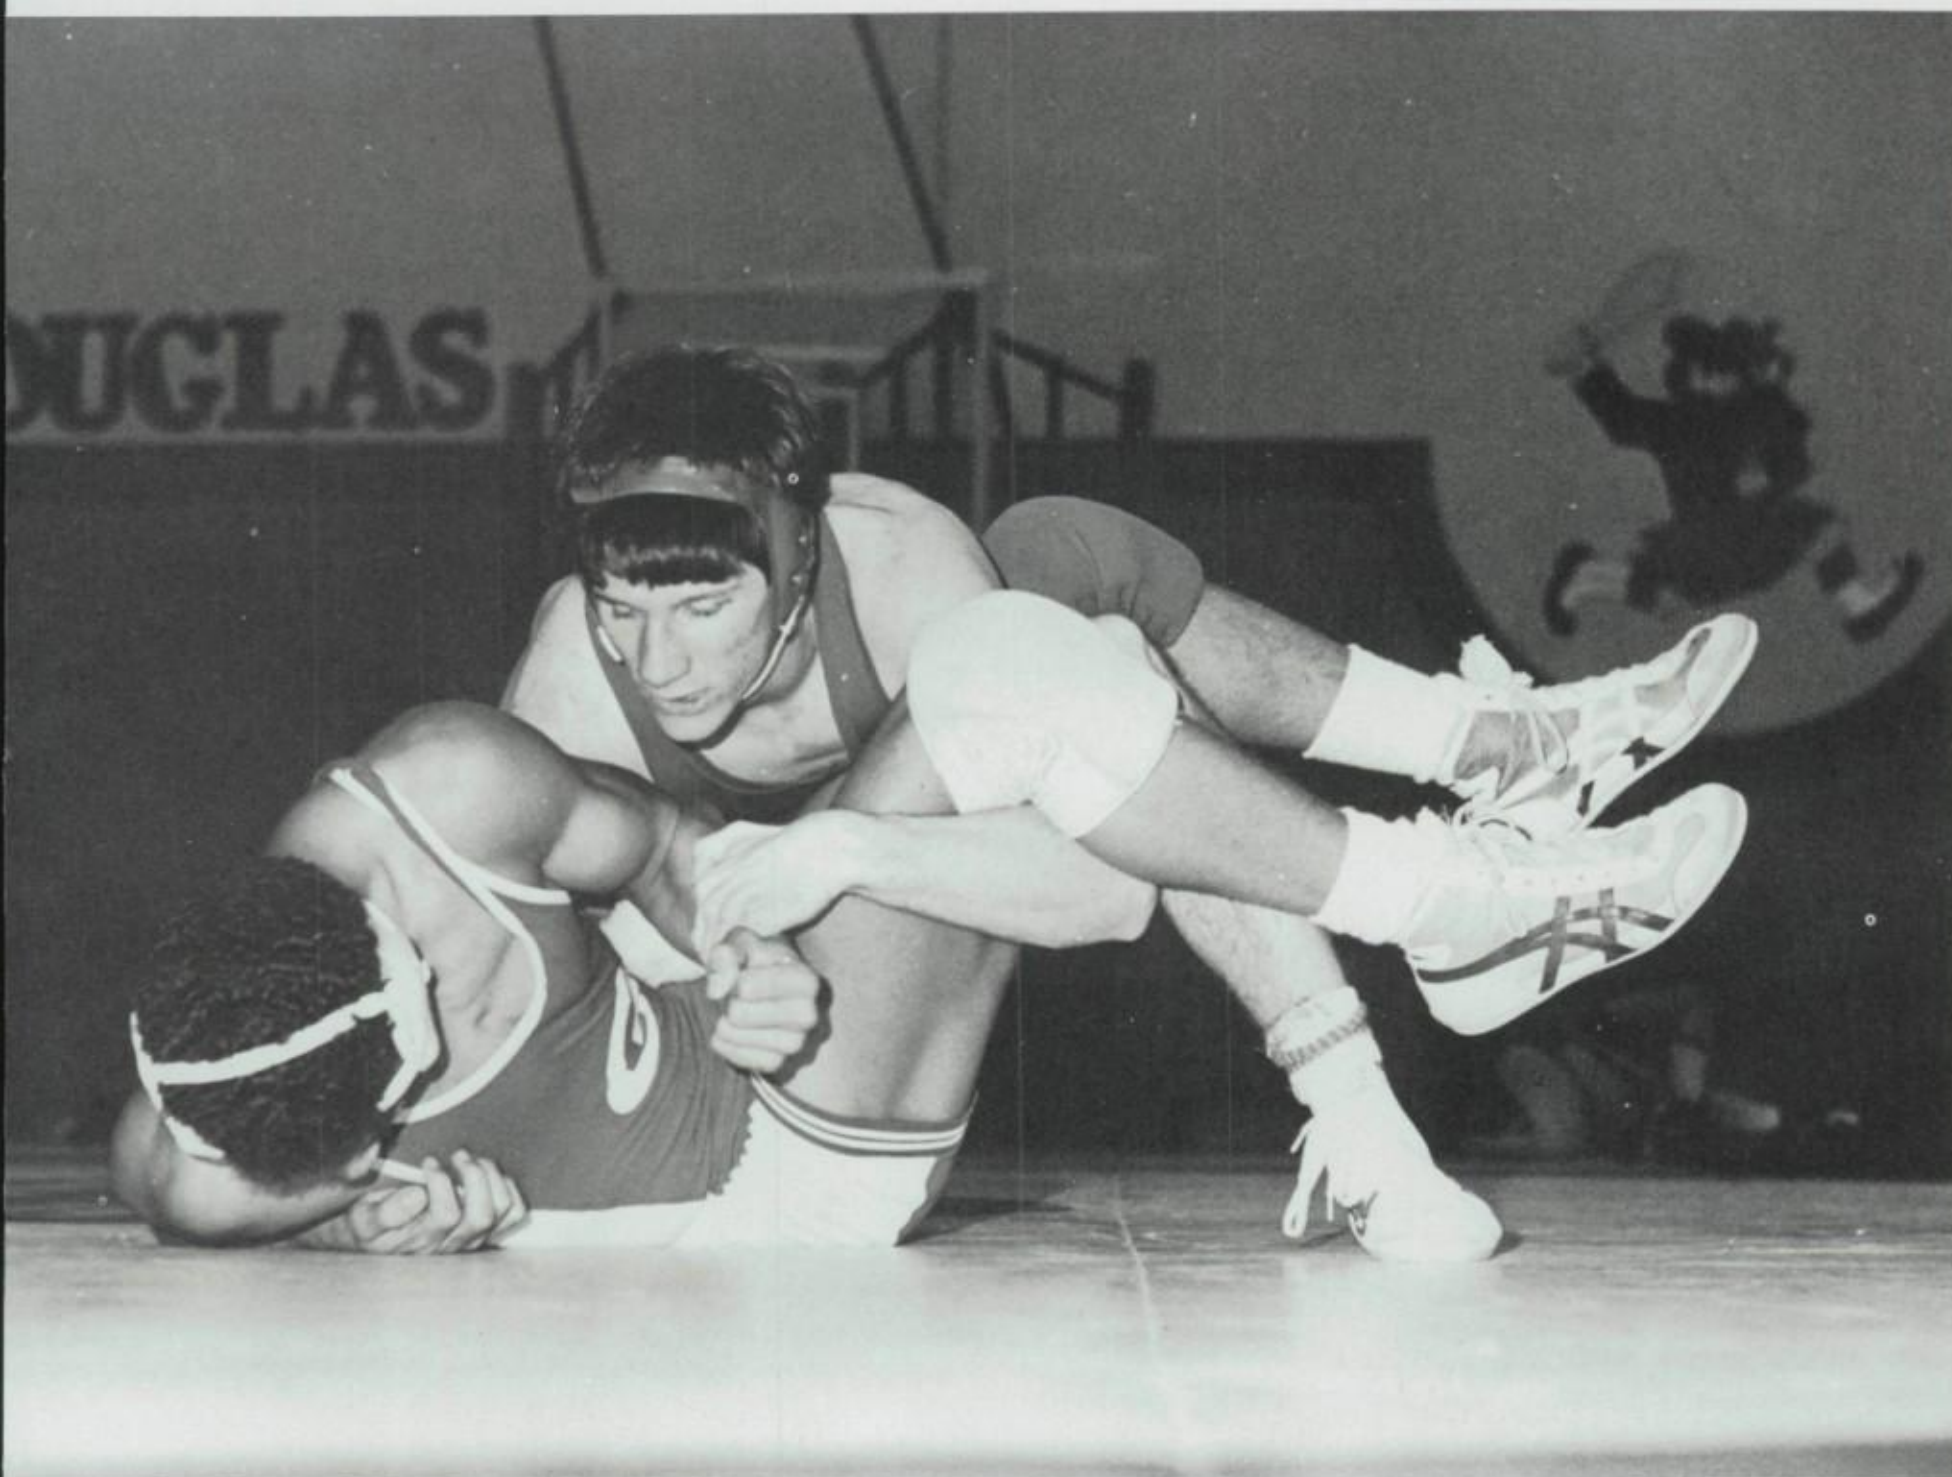

Scot Grapplers Wrestle At State

The Scot wrestling team produced another outstanding season, finishing out the year with a 7-3 record. This record led them to District where they placed second. There were many talented and improved wrestlers on the squad, including Mike Brewer, Mark Wreath, John Halverson, Pat Rawlins, David Johnson, David Cloud, John McIlmoil, and Chad Mather. Brewer was chosen the outstanding sophomore and proved it when he took second at State in the 157 pound class. Outstanding varsity wrestler Pat Rawlins took fourth at State in the 141 pound class. Head Coach DeLance Duncan commented, "This is the highest we've placed in a long while."

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: Pat Rawlins puts a bone crushing hold on his Gresham opponent . . . Outstanding wrestler Mike Brewer gets a feeling of accomplishment as the referee signals the win by the ritual raising of the arm . . . While a match progresses, the Scot wrestlers concentrate intensely on the moves being made . . . Robert Silva puts the finishing touches on his opponent . . . Steve Peak, a much improved wrestler, demonstrates his talent and captures the win for the Scots.

Experience Gained By Young Athletes

The winter sports program offered many opportunities for underclassmen to participate at all levels of competition. The JV and frosh basketball teams all played extensive schedules with much success. The top squads recordwise were the JV boys who posted a record of 18-2 and the frosh girls' team which went 17-2. In the wrestling and swimming programs underclassmen including freshmen competed not only at the JV level of competition but also at the varsity level. With this reservoir of talent the varsity teams next year should remain strong contenders in the Mt. Hood League.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: A major factor in the success of the JV girls basketball team this year was the encouragement they received during the games from their teammates on the bench. . . Coach DeLance Duncan gives some last minute instructions to frosh wrestler Robert Neill prior to his match. . . Driving to the basket, Ryan Reis puts up a shot over the outstretched arms of the opponents. . . Michelle Howe breaks the water's surface as she competes in the 100 yard butterfly event. Only a frosh, Howe swam at the varsity level of competition. . . One of the main reasons for the outstanding record of the JV basketball squad was the play of Keith Johnson, shown here putting up a jump shot in heavy traffic.

Underclassmen Lead Scot Track Team

The track squad, featuring an exceptionally talented group of underclass athletes, challenged Gresham and Barlow all season for the Mt. Hood League title. Although Gresham finally captured the crown at the District meet, David Douglas grabbed second place, thus giving notice that next year should be even better for the young Scots. Strong efforts, many resulting in personal and school records, were turned in during the season by Bill Blevins, Bob and Ron Gray, Nick Marshall, Wilie Roberts, Mark Wreath, Jason Stanchfield, and Ryan Reis. All of these athletes represented Douglas at the State track meet in Eugene to close out the team's most outstanding season in many years.

Girls Compete Well Against League Foes

Led by the running of senior distance ace Tammy Phillips and the strong showing of frosh sprinter Nicole Saldana, the girls track team posted a very respectable season with many of the girls showing much improvement in their events. Phillips, after an injury plagued season, placed second at District in the 1,500 meters run. Saldana was also a second place finisher in her specialty, the 100 meters dash. Both girls qualified for State with their performances. With a large nucleus of freshmen and sophomores returning next year the Scots' fortunes look bright.

Diamondmen Finish Low In League Play

Faced with a rebuilding year, the baseball team struggled throughout the season, finally posting a respectable 7-9 league record and a 13-13 season's mark. The Scots finished in sixth place in the Mt. Hood League. In spite of the team's lack of success in its quest for the league title, several players gave strong individual performances during the year. These included seniors Mike Hemstead, Scott Dollens, Chip Martin, and Doug Nichols. Returning next year will be outstanding underclassmen Jeff Pilger, Brent Bishop, and Ron Gray.

Softball Team Finds Competition Too Tough

Starting the year with expectations of improving their record over the previous season, the girls varsity softball team saw their hopes dashed as they finished with a disappointing 1-5 record, placing them last in the Mt. Hood League. The seniors on the team included Kathy Gray, Michelle Lamberton, Stayce Webb, Debbie Pollard, and Andrea Orazio. Leading a strong group of underclass players who gained many minutes of valuable playing experience were pitcher Chrissy Chegwiddden and infielder Debbie Kimura. With this experience the Scots once again look to the future with hope.

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: Kim Moilan and Chrissy Chegwiddden (7) find themselves right in the middle of the action in a rundown attempt during the Milwaukie game. . . The throw is too late for Veronica Beutler to prevent the stolen base. . . Chegwiddden delivers her fast ball to the plate. She proved to be the Scots' most consistent pitcher this season. . . Squaring around to bunt, Andrea Orazio attempts to sacrifice the runner to second base. . . Jenny Simmons eyes the pitcher as she gets set to advance to second base. . . A steadying influence on the team, senior Kathy Gray was one of the best catchers in the Mt. Hood League this year.

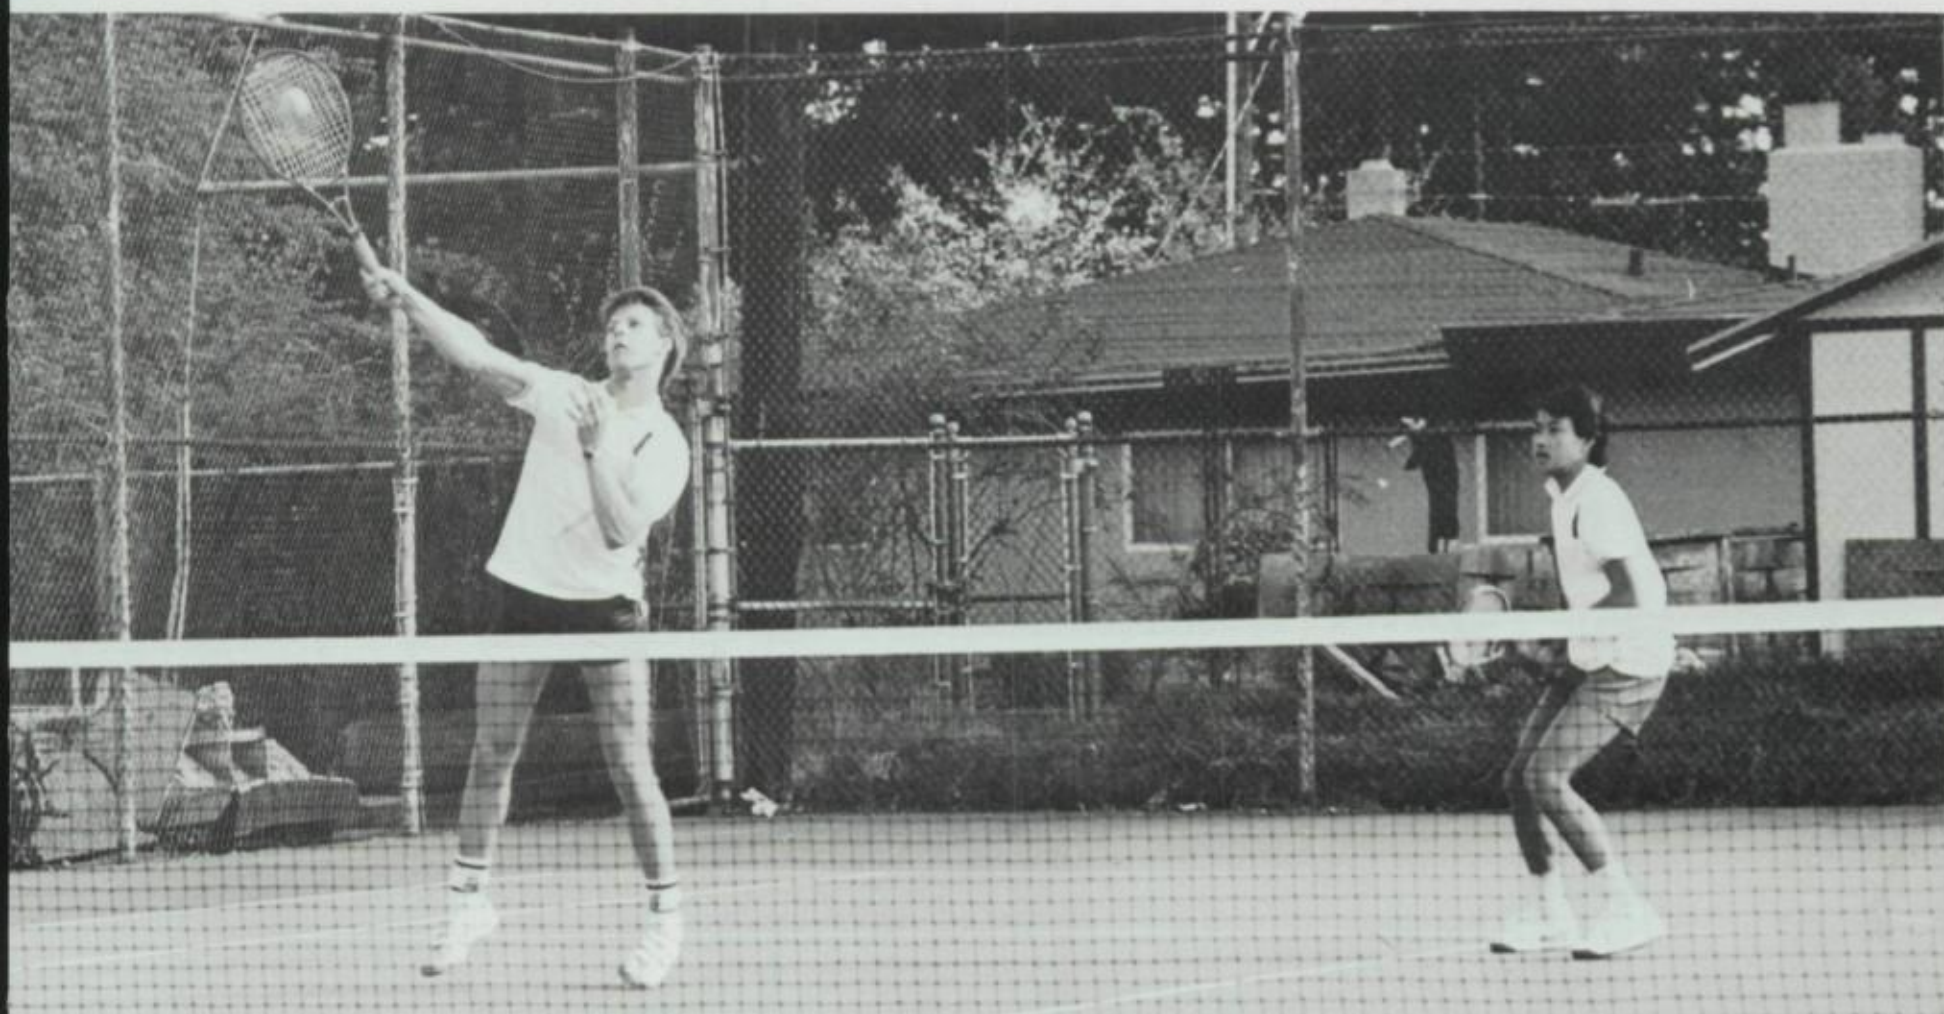

Boys Team Grabs The League Tennis Crown

Led by the consistent play of seniors Brian Fong and Phou Ounaphom, the boys tennis team waged an extremely close race with Gresham throughout the season, finishing in a tie with the Gophers for the league crown. In addition to Fong and Ounaphom, who competed in singles competition, David Alexander and Oukeo Ounaphom contributed much to the Scots' tennis success as the team's No. 1 doubles pair. All four players qualified for the State tournament. Other seniors on the squad included Song Kim, Tom George, Mats Nordgren, Huan Nguyen, and Byron Bressel.

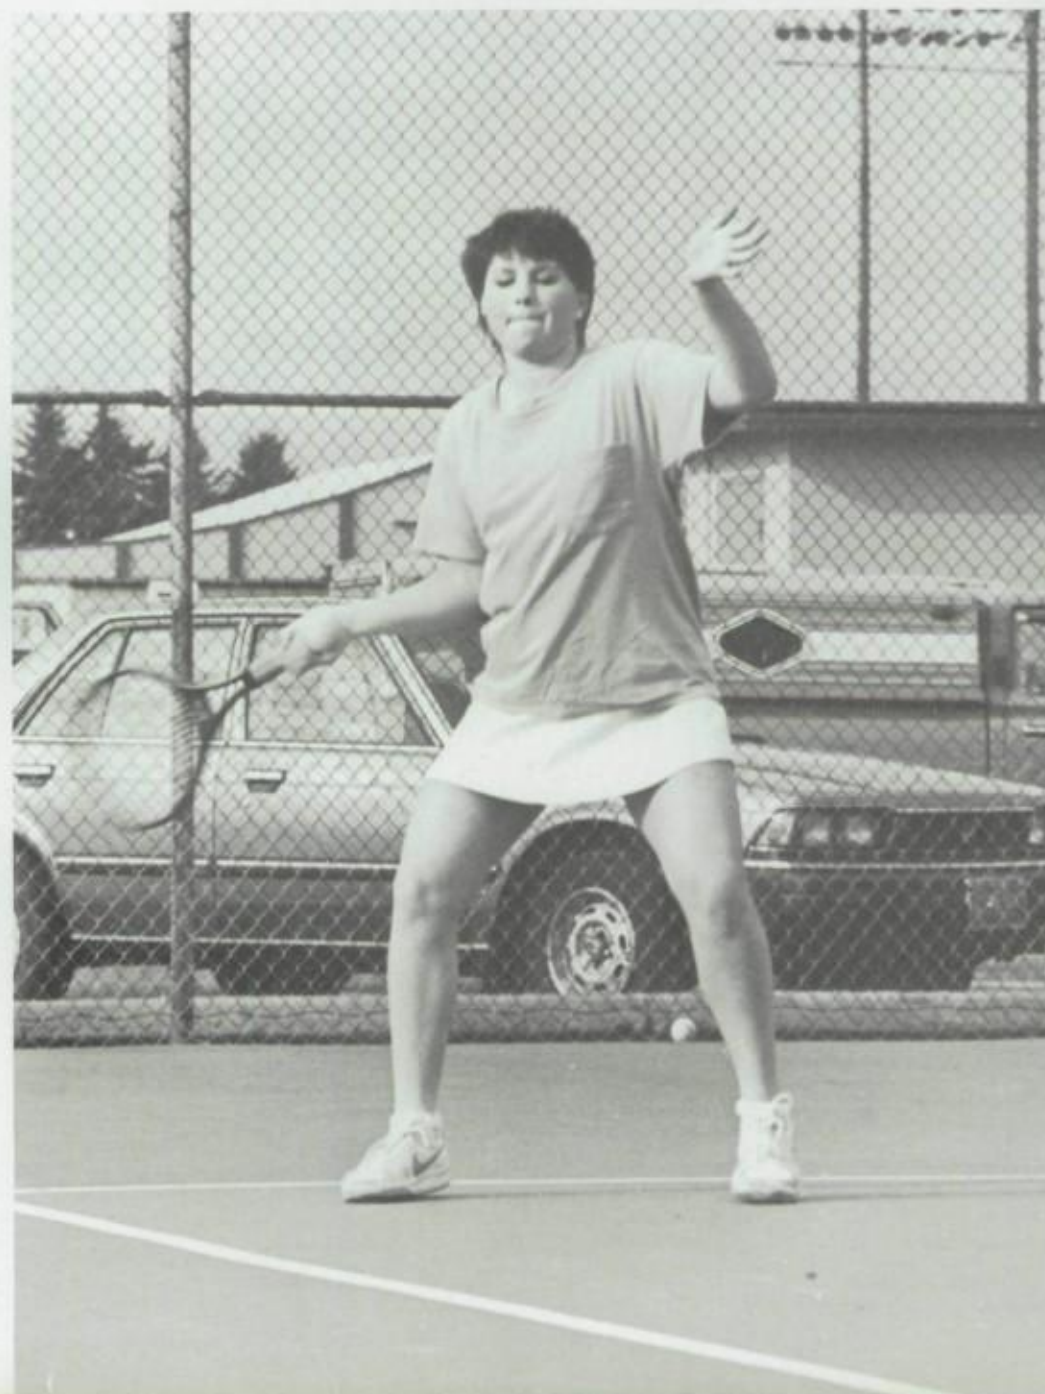

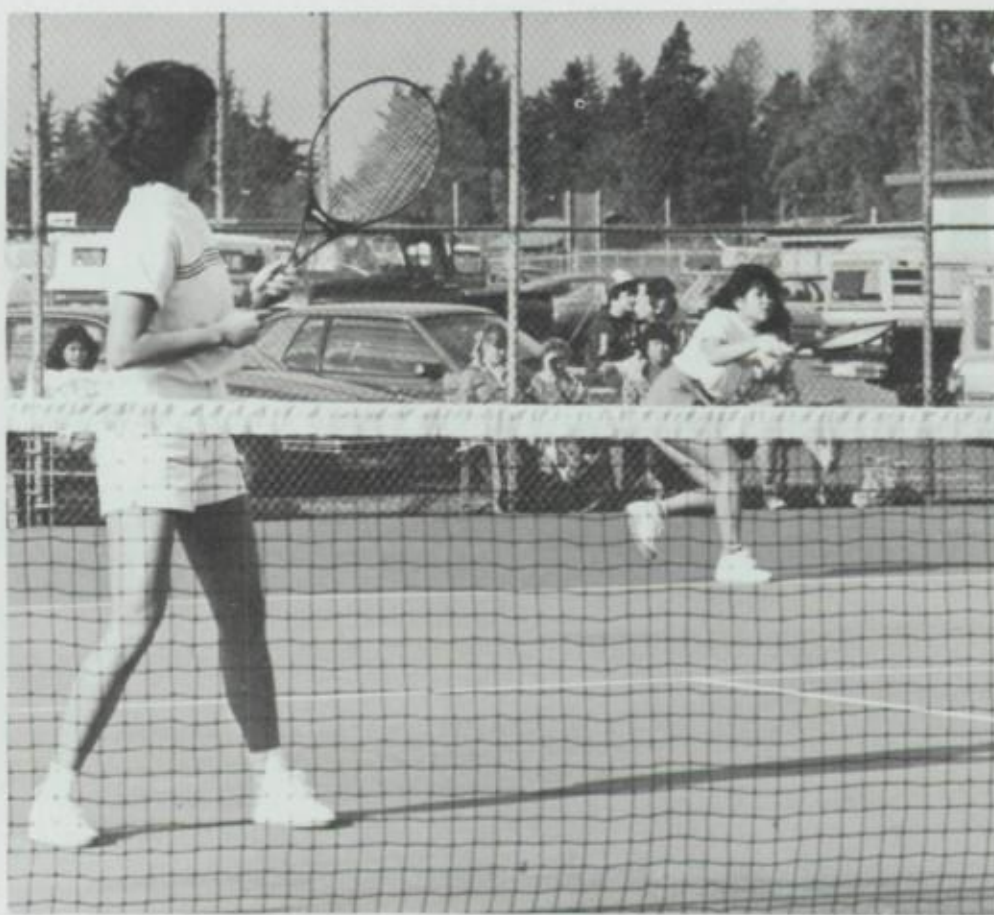

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: With power and agility, Phou Ounaphom puts his entire body into the return. . . Before their match with The Dalles the Scot tennis players enjoy the afternoon sun. . . During a doubles match David Alexander slams the ball with a powerful stroke while his partner, Okeo Ounaphom, looks on. . . Brian Fong leaps into the air to return an opponent's shot. . . Phou Ounaphom concentrates on a return during a singles match.

Girl Netters Post An Outstanding Season

Led by the play of Nicole Olds, Iria Aquino, and Gina Franco, the girls tennis team posted an outstanding 14-2 record in Mt. Hood League competition. This mark earned the Scots a second place finish in the league standings. At the conference meet Olds placed second in singles competition with Aquino and Franco capturing fourth place in doubles action. All three girls represented Douglas and the Mt. Hood League at the State tournament. With Denise Dominique the only senior on the squad, the Scots should be one of the favorites to win the league title next year.

Spring Sports Draw Underclass Athletes

Underclass athletes performed exceptionally well in many of the spring sports this year. Leading the way were the strong efforts at the varsity level of competition in track and tennis. Outstanding performances were turned in by Bob Gray, Ryan Reis, and Bill Maxwell for the track squad while Nicole Olds, Iria Aquino, Gina Franco, David Alexander, and Oukeo Ounaphom were all top ranked players for the tennis teams. Although the team records in frosh and JV softball and baseball were not exceptional, many other underclassmen added to their skills and gained needed experience as they prepared themselves for future varsity competition.

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: Nicole Olds follows through on her serve. Olds was the No. 1 singles player on the girls tennis team . . . Trying to make up ground on their exchange, Erin Lewis and Angel Stupey put pressure on their Reynolds opponents as the 400 meter relay race heads down the back stretch . . . Rob Sullybrook desperately lunges head first back into first base as he tries to avert the pick off effort . . . Coach Jane Miller charges up the spirit of the JV softball squad just prior to the start of the game . . . Freshmen, such as Kevin Thomas, played key roles in the outstanding success of the Scot track teams this year.

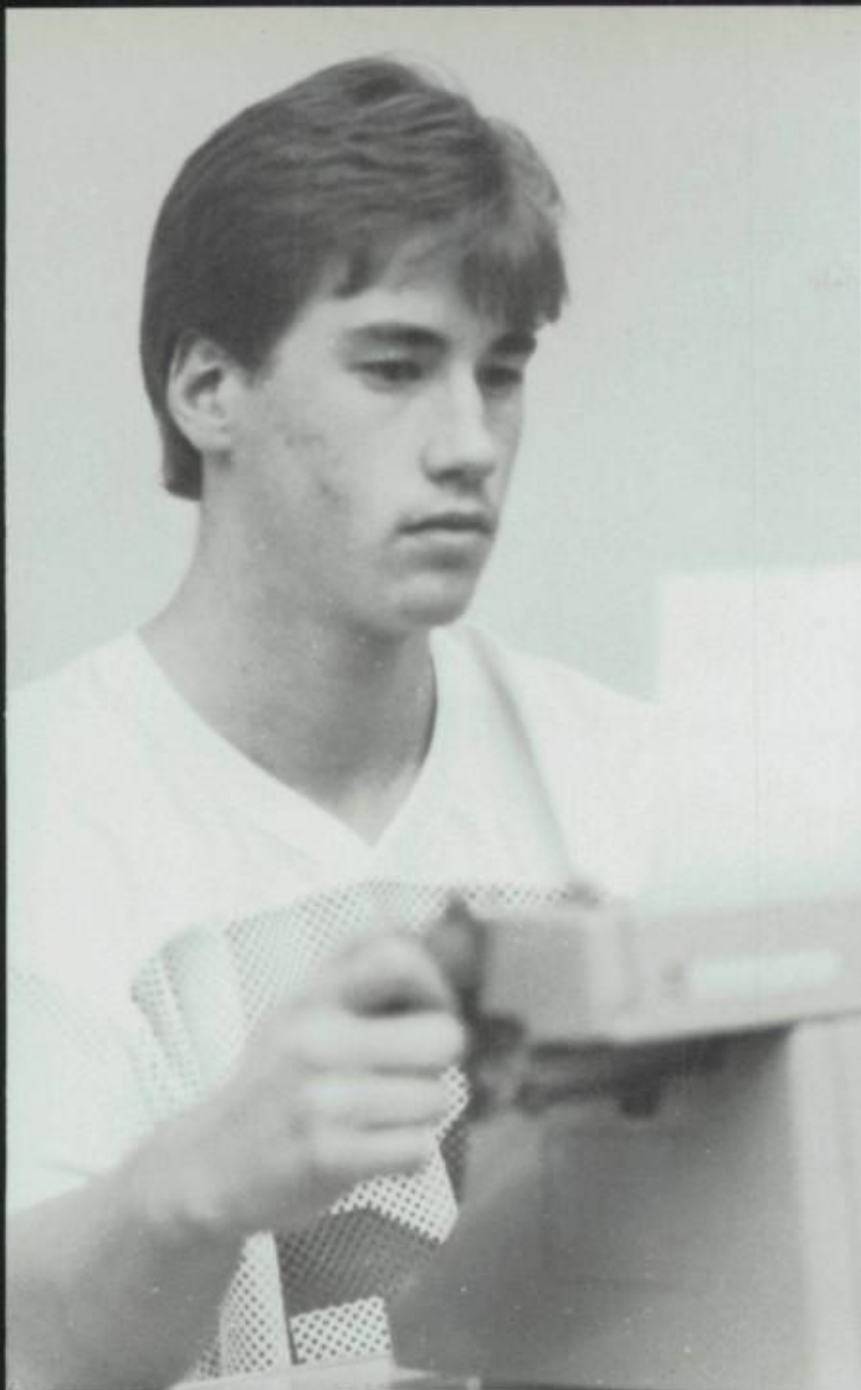

ACADEMICS

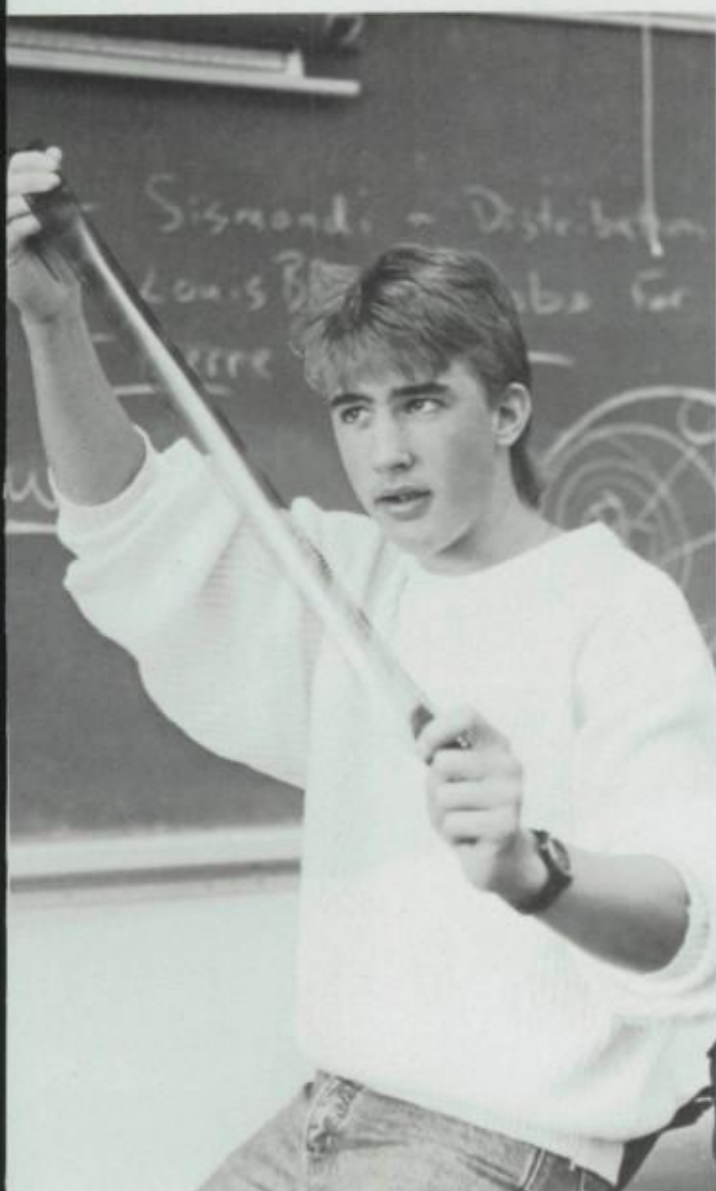

Efforts Of A Few Bring Joy To Many

At the end of each school year there is always a great desire to put the memories of school behind us and get on with the long awaited summer vacation. But with the resumption of school in the fall, the old memories are brought back forever in the form of the CELTIC. The combined efforts of both the yearbook staff and the students from the photography classes, the annual is the result of long hours spent in the darkroom, endless rewrites of copy and headlines, redoing of seemingly perfect layouts, and relentless pressure of deadlines which must be met. However, the reward for these efforts comes each fall at the CELTIC party as the students and the grads return to the clamor for the new CELTIC.

New Labs Stimulate All Scot Scientists

After over thirty years in the old senior building the chemistry and physics classes moved to the brand new laboratories in the main building. This move was a major step by the department and the school administration to bring all the science classes eventually to the main building into a unified department. In their new quarters the young scientists found a much brighter environment in which to study the mysteries of the scientific world. These classes along with the offerings in biology, horticulture, and general science combine to give both the college bound students and the non-college bound students a sound basis for their lives in an increasingly science-oriented world.

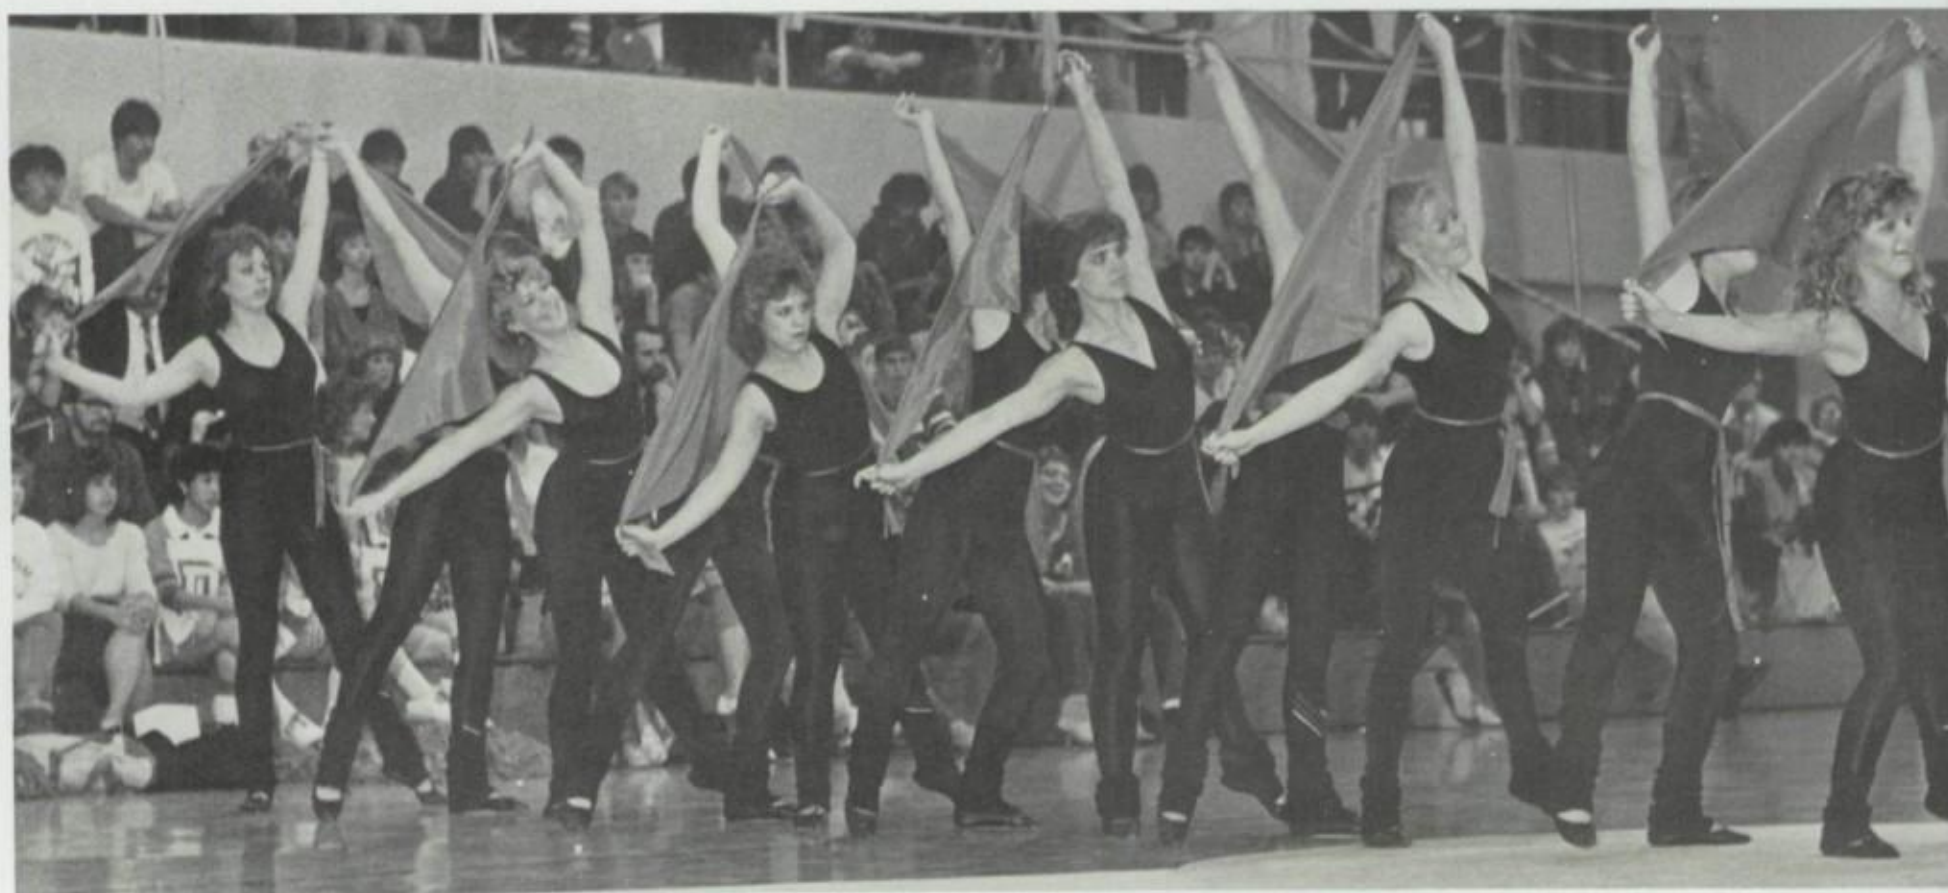

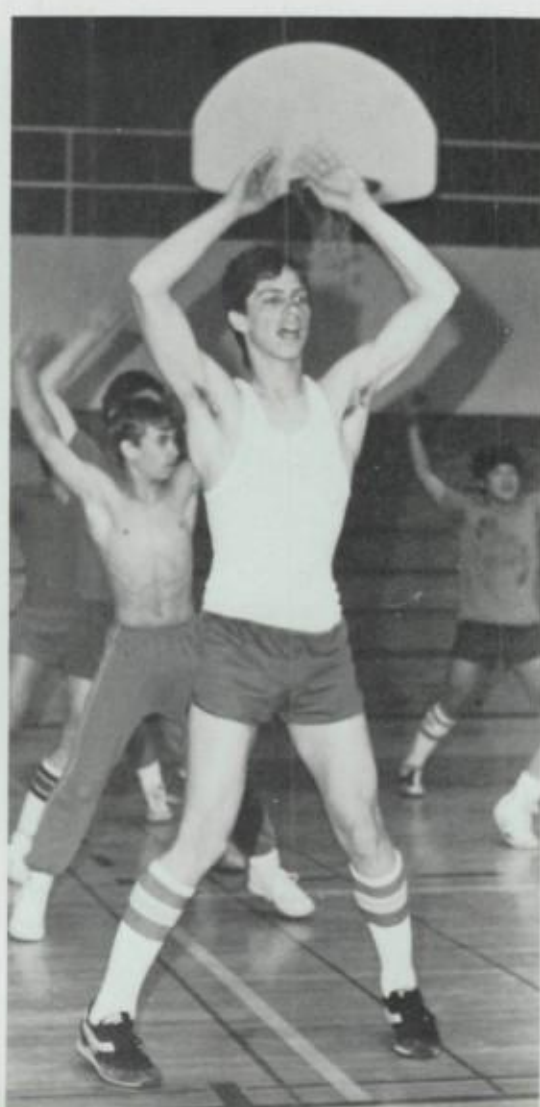

CLOCKWISE, ABOVE: Anticipating tough competition in the annual physic class bridge design contest, Bill Blevins gives his entry a last minute inspection. . . Kathy Medley seems to be admiring the courage of Jeff Lutz as he examines their fetal pig specimen in biology lab. . . Combining their knowledge, John Waldron, Craig Inglesby, and Tye Phillips cautiously proceed with a complicated chemistry experiment. . . Horticulture students Lisa Heil and Jami Groeger get practical experience in the greenhouse as they tend their plantings.

Students Realize Benefits From P.E.

Through a well rounded program participants in the physical education classes gain coordination, muscle development and endurance. Also, these classes introduce students to the rules and skills involved in the various sports and teach the need for teamwork and cooperation. In addition to the physical advantages of a fit body, P.E. gives students a relief from the classroom routines. It allows one to vent the stress that can easily accumulate in an academic environment. These classes can provide personal challenges and promote good health habits as the basis for future success in life.

Music Classes Teach Wide Range Of Skills

The David Douglas music department offers a wide range of classes, all designed to aid students to further their music skills as well as learn new skills. Included in the music curriculum are classes in band, orchestra, and choral music. All of the classes help students not only improve their musicianship performing skills, but also they aid in the development of listening, and the appreciation of such music fundamentals as harmony, phrasing, and music theory.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: Band director Larry Morrell lectures the band on the finer points of musicianship. The long, hard practices result in the sterling sounds of the Scot band in performance. . . Three members of the vocal music department, Kristi Karbo, Carrie Sanders, and Ginell Lamont offer their talent to the student body during an assembly. . . Steve McDade pounds out the rhythm during a practice session of the jazz ensemble. . . The saxophone section of the concert band adds its distinctive sound to the band's effort. . . Jackie Anderson and Carmen Yount rehearse a difficult passage on their bassoons.

Shop Classes Teach Many Needed Skills

In a world which is becoming increasingly dependent upon machinery of all types, the industrial arts classes take on added significance in today's educational curriculum. Whether taking these classes as preparation for a potential career in the trades or just for personal enrichment, students enrolled in the industrial arts classes at David Douglas are taught the necessary basic skills in such fields as woodworking, metals, electronics, power mechanics, and drafting. Offering both textbook instruction as well as the hands on practical experiences, the department does an outstanding job in producing students knowledgeable in these important fields.

Students Given Many Choices in Bus Ed

The business education department offers a broad scope of classes aimed at preparing students for entry into the business world upon graduation from high school. Included in the curriculum are classes in typing, accounting, business law, clerical and secretarial clusters, and word processing. In these classes students are introduced to skills and techniques which will prove valuable to them whether they go directly into the business world upon graduation or continue on to higher education. The value of these classes is recognized in their continued high enrollments.

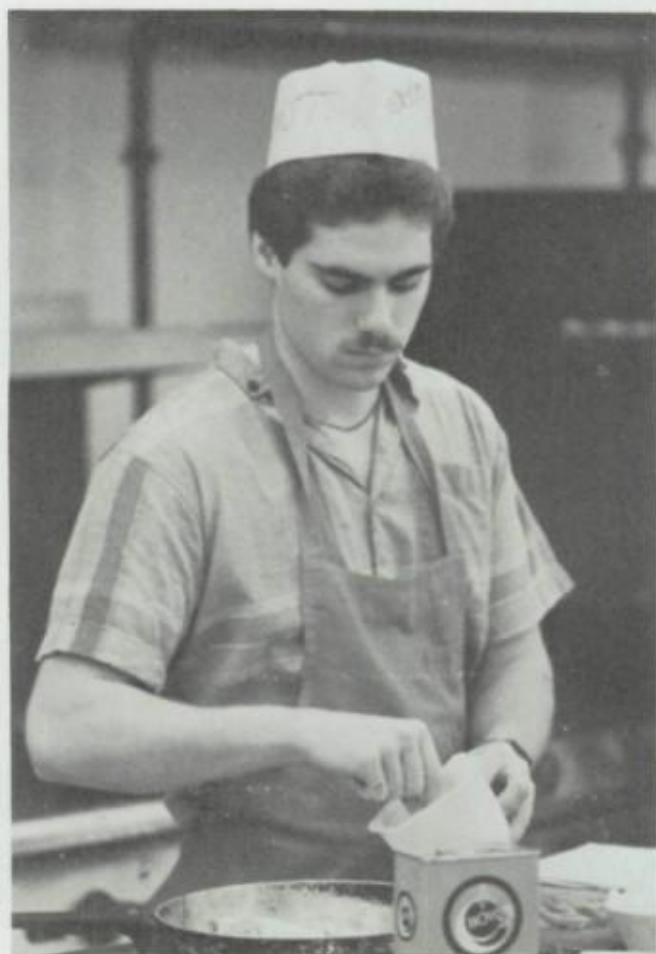

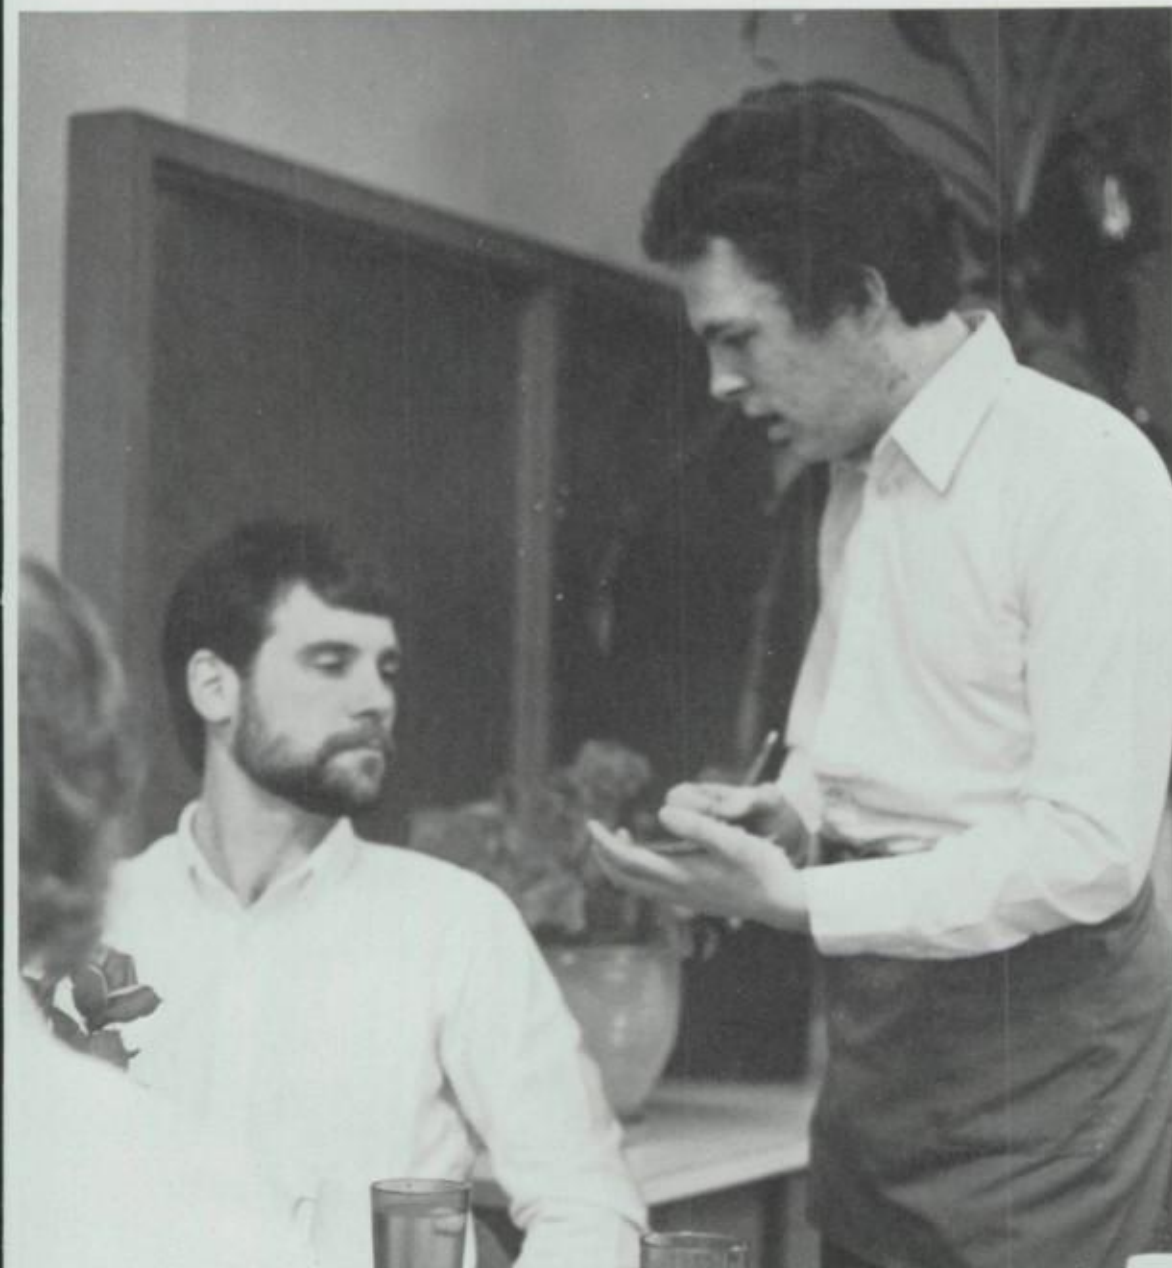

CLOCKWISE, ABOVE: The typing classes are the introduction for most students to the business education curriculum . . . Lisa Frerk and Tina Kessler check their ledgers in accounting class . . . A typing lesson holds the full attention of Brenda Peters . . . Suzy Long, laboring over the entries in her ledger book, attempts to balance the account . . . Jim Hinkel puts in his daily time on the computer. The computers and word processing machines have become a major factor in the business ed offerings.

Needed Skills Taught In Home Economics

The David Douglas home economics department offers both girls and boys the opportunities to prepare themselves for their futures as home owners and homemakers. In addition to the standard offerings of cooking, sewing, and interior design, the department offers advanced courses designed to aim the students toward possible careers. These classes include child services which gives students practical experience through their involvement in the David Douglas child care center. For students interested in jobs in the food services industry, the food services cluster with its popular Kilt restaurant experience has proven to be a very popular class.

Budding Artists Find Creative Outlet

General art, ceramics, jewelry, painting, drawing, and calligraphy are courses of study offered by the David Douglas art department. Through their participation in these classes, students are given the opportunities to develop and refine their artistic skills as well as gaining an appreciation and understanding of the many facets of art. Working with a wide variety of art materials and using many different artistic techniques, the young artists are encouraged to develop a critical evaluation of their own work as well as the work of the masters. Whether the student is planning for a career in an art related field or is merely sampling an art class for general enrichment, the David Douglas art department offers quality art instruction for everyone.

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: A beautiful stained glass project gets its finishing cleaning from the hands of its creator, Lisa Heppner. . . Kim Shields and her fellow painting classmates benefit from the guidance and patience of Mr. Monrad Bjorge. . . An exercise in calligraphy requires the complete attention of Denise Dominique. . . David King uses the polishing wheel to shine up his jewelry project. . . Applying the glazes to his ceramics piece, Trevor Dick nears the completion of another work of art.

HIGHLANDER Keeps Student Body Posted

Conducting interviews, soliciting advertising, typing copy, creating headlines, proof reading, and writing editorials are some of the many tasks the staff members of the HIGHLANDER face with each new edition. All of these duties must be performed under the ever present pressure of deadlines. This year's newspaper staff, assisted by the advanced journalism classes, met these challenges throughout the school year as they produced the many issues of the HIGHLANDER. A high point of the journalism year was a trip to Phoenix by several staff members to attend the national scholastic journalism conference.

Study of Foreign Languages On Rise

The study of foreign languages at David Douglas becomes more popular with each passing year. The increased enrollments reflect the importance of understanding and communicating with other cultures in today's shrinking world. Students enrolled in the Spanish, French, and German classes gain skill in the classroom in listening, speaking, reading, and writing these languages. Outside the formal classroom many activities are offered by the department to involve students in cultural activities which allow them to further their appreciation not only of the language but also of the culture of the foreign country.

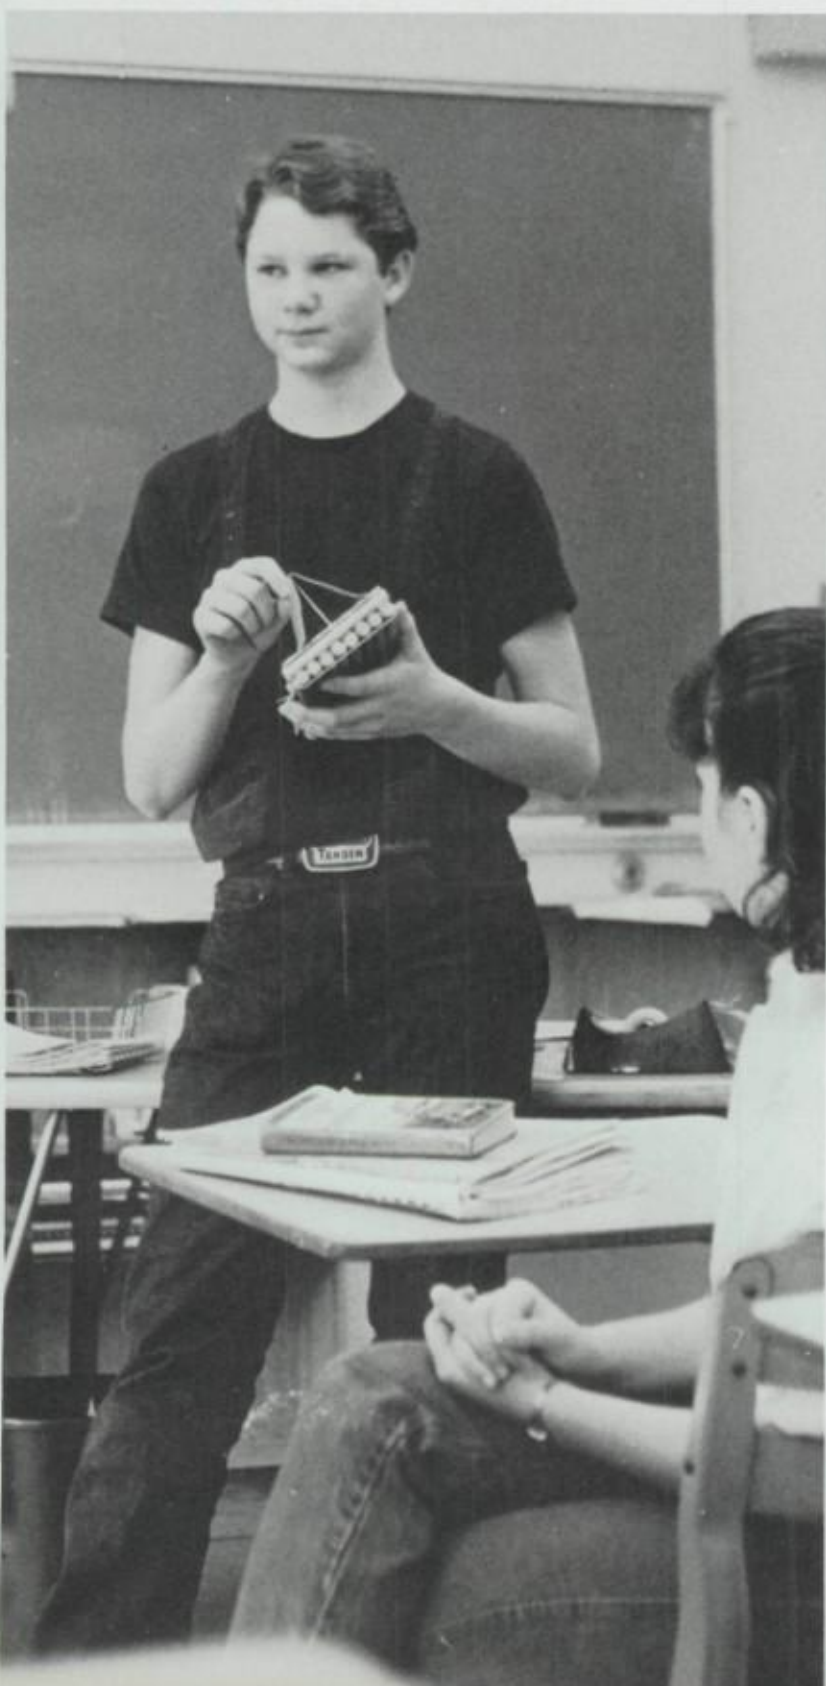

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: A class of students is drilled by Mr. Walt Swanson on the proper form and uses of German grammar . . . French students Ralph Chase and Joelle Anthony become cupids for the day as they deliver Val-o-Grams on Valentines Day . . . Putting their knowledge and skills to a practical test, the students of Mr. Joe Little's Spanish classes hold a fashion show . . . French students Eunah Lee and Laura Dirks make spirit pennants for Homecoming . . . The foreign language classes at Douglas involve more than just learning the basic language. Here a group of students get a taste of French culture as they sample French pastries and cheeses.

Education Begins With English, Social Studies

The mark of an educated person is his or her ability to be able to read, to write, and to think and express one's thoughts clearly. With this goal in mind each Douglas student takes classes to fulfill basic requirements in language arts and social studies. Actually a wide range of classes are offered in these two fundamental disciplines, thus giving each student opportunities to take classes which meet their personal interests. Among these choices are literature, composition, drama, speech, politics, personal finance, and economics. After a four year exposure to these studies, a Scot graduate leaves Douglas with a firm educational foundation.

CLOCKWISE, LEFT: Shawn Montgomery explains some of the finer points of the adventures of Huck Finn to his lit class. . . A session in the library finds Huy Phan, Michelle Hansen, and Tracy Haider enlisting the help of their teacher, Mrs. Joann Boaglio, to solve a tough research question. . . Many social studies students had the opportunity to learn about student life in Israel from the visit to Douglas by two Israeli high school students. . . Charlene Huft explains the literacy significance of a classical art work to her English classmates. . . Mr. Ron Goodwin interprets a finer point of U.S. History to Roger Forrester.

Douglas Salutes Its Outstanding Scholars

Excellence in the classroom is gained through a blend of talent, hard work, and a strong desire to meet the competitive challenge. At Douglas there are several recognitions offered as a reward to those who meet this challenge and achieve academic success. The Douglas chapter of the National Honor Society is a very active group, sponsoring the yearly blood drive and providing ushers for the graduation ceremony. In addition to the NHS this year an awards desert was held honoring all those scholars who achieved a GPA of 3.5 or above during the fall semester.

CLOCKWISE, BELOW: The large group of honor students listen attentively to the various speakers at the honors desert... Rachel Horn searches through the pile of award certificates for Lillian Seapy's. Seapy achieved a 3.7 GPA during the fall semester... The hungry honors students go through the refreshment lines at the honors desert... Vice Principal Claudia Girod helps Kathy Gray and Tom George distribute the awards certificates... Helping with the installation of new National Honor Society members, John McIlmoil, Janelle Morgan, Suzy Rentfrow, and Kelly Busch listen to the proceedings.

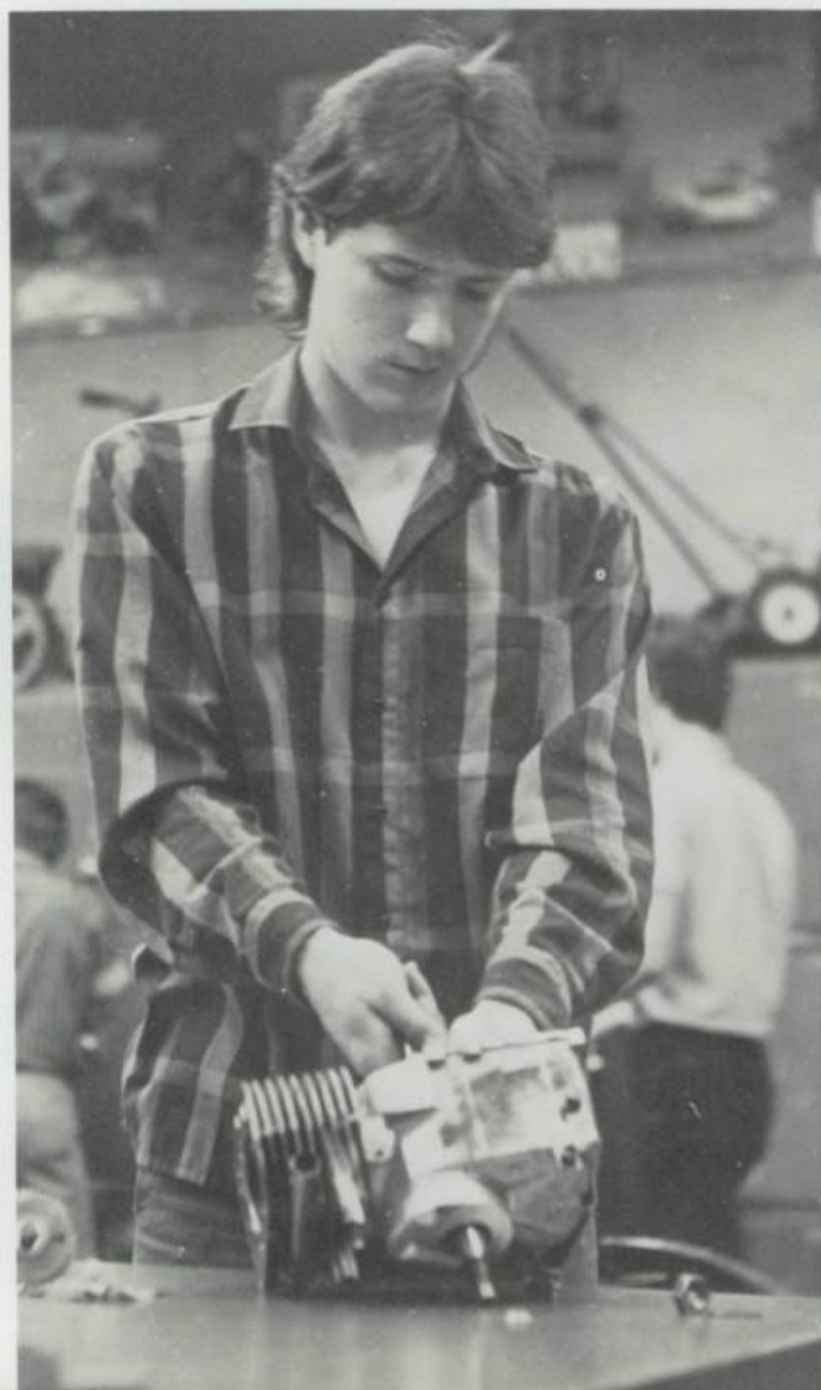

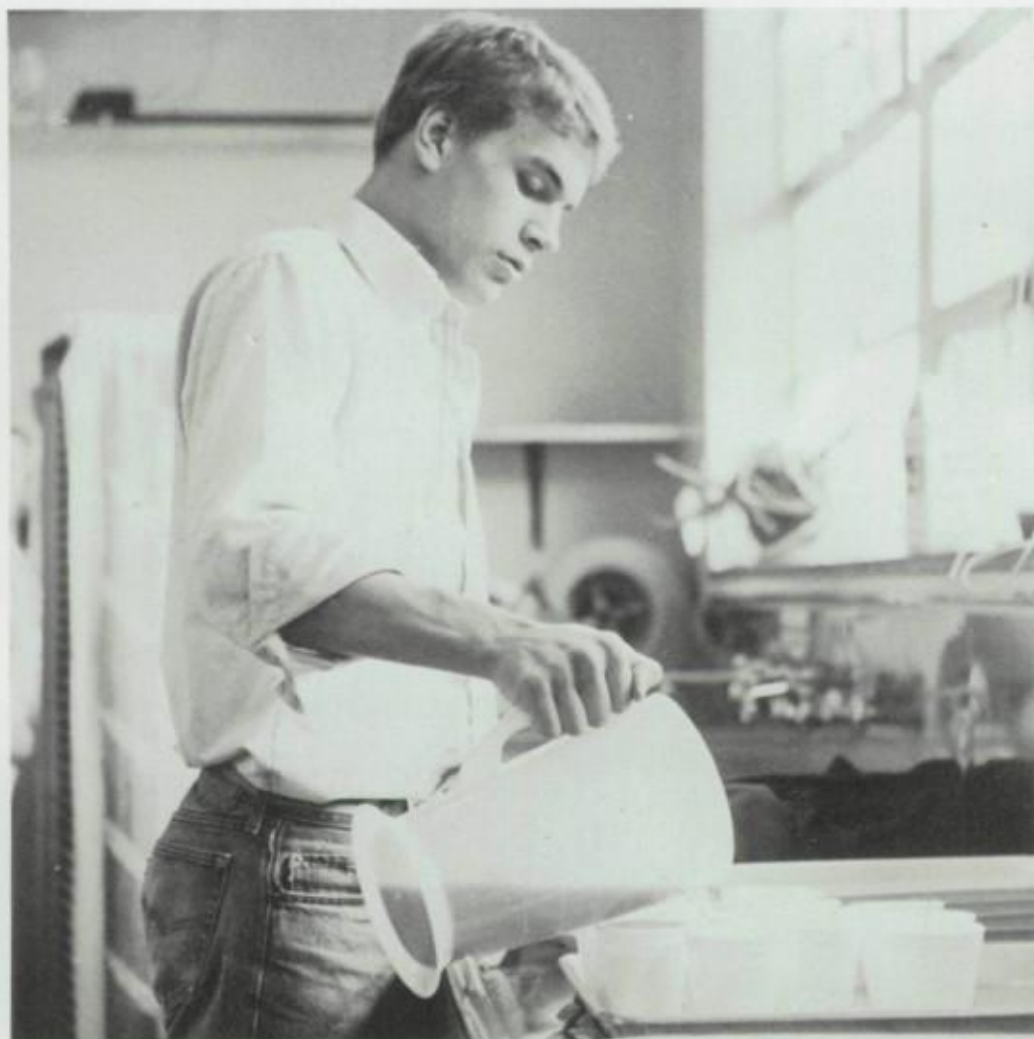

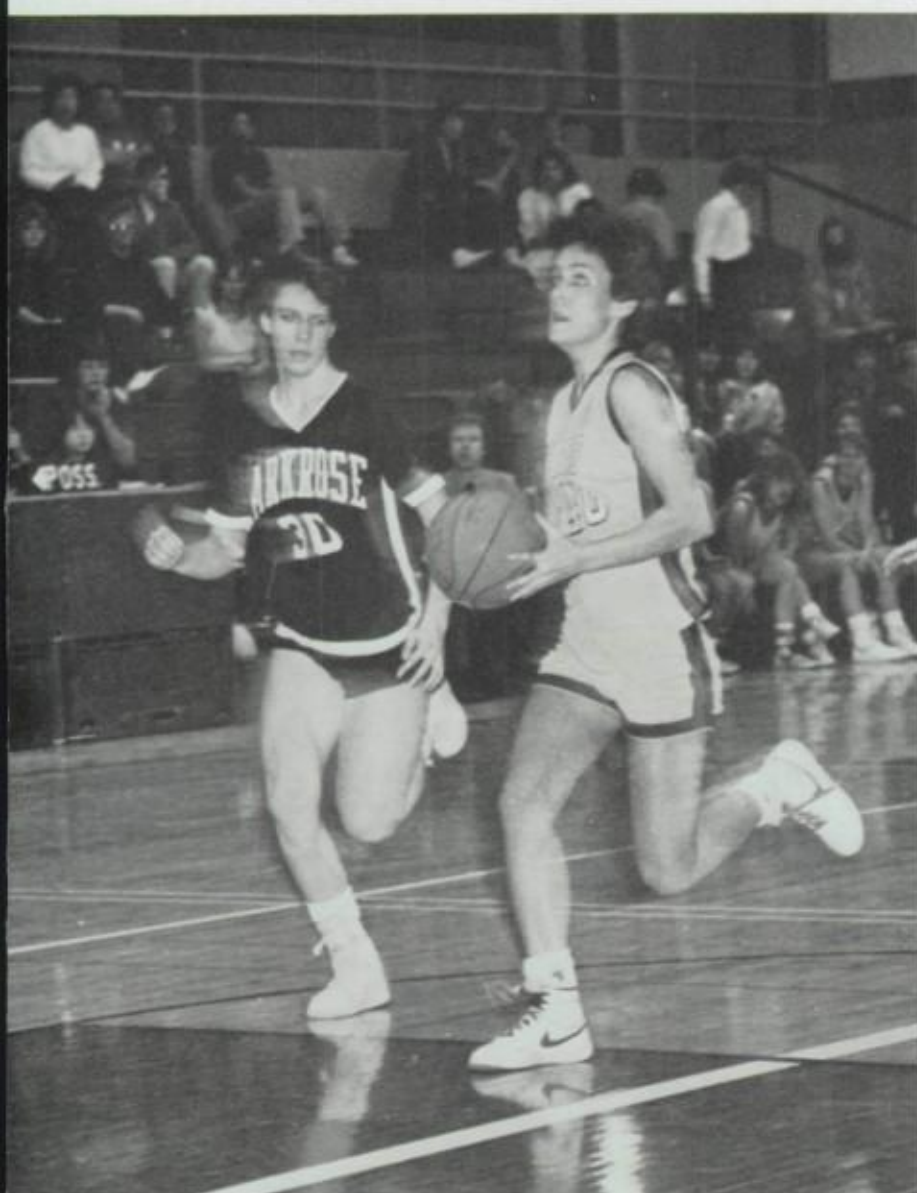

UNDERCLASSES

Junior Class Grows In Maturity, Stature

As the class of '87 began the year, a marked difference could be seen in many of the juniors. Responsibility and maturity had replaced the former attitudes of underclassmen. They participated in events like mock trial and speech tournaments as well as competing in sports and other extracurricular activities. The junior class has shown great potential and ability and may become one of the finest classes in Scot history.

With a year of experience already under their belts, the sophomores began the school year with great confidence. As they entered the various aspects of Scot life during the year, it became very apparent that the sophomore class has many fine talents combined with true leadership abilities. This was shown during assemblies, and sporting events, as well as in the classrooms. Leadership in the Class of '88 was provided by student council members, such as sophomore president James Liu. This year's sophomore class has proved itself worthy of greater challenges.

Frosh Make An Impressive Beginning

Starting the school year full of spirit, the Class of 1989 anticipated a great year. They took their status seriously and developed a pride which made them stand out among the other classes. Many freshmen were seen participating in various athletic, music, and class competitions or just supporting their fellow classmates. Among the many achievements of the frosh class during the year was the annual Sadie Hawkins Dance, a most successful event which helped bring the freshman class together as a unit. The enthusiasm of the freshmen proved to be a major factor in building this year's school spirit.

FACULTY

Expert Guidance Offered By Staff

Throughout our journey through David Douglas we are fortunate to be the recipients of the attention and guidance of a talented and dedicated group of professional educators. While the administrators rule our lives at Douglas with a firm but fair hand, our teachers spend long hours in close contact with us both in and out of the classrooms. Supporting these people are the classified staff who also work hard to help us on our journey. All of these people are a major influence on our lives. They are a vital part of the David Douglas family.

Karla,
Glad we've become friends and Chem. buddies. Keep smiling and have a good year.
Love,
Jana Vela

Dear Karla,
What an absolute great
Sophomore year it was!
Really glad we shared Geometry together or
I would have nearly died of loneliness!
Have a great year and a great FUTURE!

Love,
Elain OQ.

KARLA,
HEY, BUDDY HOW'S LIFE?
WE'RE BIG JUNIORS THIS YEAR, "88" NEXT YEAR!
TOO BAD WE DON'T HAVE ANY
CLASSES ^{TOGETHER} THIS YEAR I MISS
TALKING TO YA. SOCCER NEXT YEAR RIGHT! YOU'RE REALLY
A SWEET HEART SO KEEP SMILING AND HAVE A GOOD YEAR!
LOVE,
Jennifer
